Punishment in Europe Vincenzo Ruggiero, Mick Ryan, 2013-08-30 This collection from a range of leading international scholars looks at penal practice in a variety of different European countries Noting particularities as well as similarities such as the overuse of imprisonment and the use of harsher sanctions against the poor this book questions how we justify and deliver punishment in Europe Community Punishment Gwen Robinson, Fergus McNeill, 2015-10-16 In Community Punishment European perspectives the authors place punishment in the community under the spotlight by exploring the origins evolution and adaptations of supervision in 11 European jurisdictions For most people punishment in the criminal justice system is synonymous with imprisonment Yet both in Europe and in the USA the numbers of people under some form of penal supervision in the community far exceeds the numbers in prison and many prisoners are released under supervision Written and edited by leading scholars in the field this collection advances the sociology of punishment by illuminating the neglected but crucial phenomenon of mass supervision As well as putting criminological and penological theories to the test in an examination of their ability to explain the evolution of punishment beyond the prison and across diverse states the contributors to this volume also assess the appropriateness of the term community punishment in different parts of Europe Engaging in a serious exploration of common themes and differences in the jurisdictions included in the collection the authors go on to examine how community punishment came into being in their jurisdiction and how its institutional forms and practices have been legitimated and re legitimated in response to shifting social cultural and political contexts This book is essential reading for academics and students involved in the study of both community punishment and comparative penology but will also be of great interest to criminal justice policymakers managers and practitioners Penology? Tom Daems, Dirk van Zyl Smit, Sonja Snacken, 2013-05-17 Is there something distinctive about penology in Europe Do Europeans think about punishment and penal policy in a different way to people in other parts of the globe If so why is this the case and how does it work in practice This book addresses some major and pressing issues that have been emerging in recent years in the interdisciplinary field of European penology that is a space where legal scholarship criminology sociology and political science meet or should meet in order to make sense of punishment in Europe The chapters in European Penology have been written by leading scholars in the field and focus in particular on the interaction of European academic penology and national practice with European policies as developed by the Council of Europe and increasingly by Western European Penal Systems Vincenzo Ruggiero, Mick Ryan, Joe Sim, 1995-11-13 This unique the European Union and original textbook offers undergraduates and interested professionals a much needed description of how the penal system including both prisons and alternatives to custody is organized in eight major Western European countries Each chapter provides readers with a critical anatomy and empirical overview of the full range of penal sanctions used in each country and an analysis of how these sanctions are implemented Using statistical data which are not widely available contributors

Sonja Snacken, Els Dumortier, 2013-03-01 This volume provides an important and exciting contribution to the knowledge on punishment across Europe Over the past decade punitiveness has been studied through analyses of increased or new forms of punishment in western countries Comparative studies on the other hand have illustrated important differences in levels of punitiveness between these countries and have tried to explain these differences by looking at risk and protective factors Covering both quantitative and qualitative dimensions this book focuses on mechanisms interacting with levels of punitiveness that seem to allow room for less punitive political choices especially within a European context social policies human rights and a balanced approach to victim rights and public opinion in constitutional democracies The book is split into three sections Punishment and Welfare Chapters look into possible lessons to be learned from characteristics and developments in Scandinavian and some Continental European countries Punishment and Human Rights Contributions analyze how human rights in Europe can and do act as a shield against but sometimes also as a possible motor for criminalization and penalization Punishment and Democracy The increased political attention to victims rights and interests and to public opinion surveys in European democracies is discussed as a possible risk for enhanced levels of punitiveness in penal policies and evaluated against the background of research evidence about the wishes and expectations of victims of crime and the ambivalence and polycentric consistency of public opinion formations about crime and punishments This book will be a valuable addition to the literature in this field and will be of interest to students scholars and policy officials across The Routledge Handbook of European Penology Sonja Snacken, Gaëtan Cliquennois, Ioan Europe and elsewhere Durnescu, Diete Humblet, Elena Larrauri, 2025-12-15 European penology the multidisciplinary scientific study of punishment carried out on the European continent is booming This Handbook aims to offer an overview of the current state of the art and of cutting edge penological research in Europe covering all the regions north south east west and Europe s institutional organisations the Council of Europe and the European Union and including research that may hitherto not have been published in English The Handbook also reflects on whether there is anything distinctive or typically not necessarily exclusively European in the ways penology is applied in Europe This challenge is taken up by a team of five editors and 60 authors from 21 different countries reflecting a balance of gender early and promising career and established researchers After the editors Introduction the book is organised into three parts Part I European Penology Scientific Developments discusses theoretical and methodological developments and important issues within comparative penology Part II European Penality Developments in Penal Policies and Practices focuses on transversal European developments particular groups of offenders and specific forms of punishment Part III offers a reflection on penal policies and practices in Europe as seen from abroad The Handbook offers graduate and postgraduate students postgraduate researchers academics and other research users such as governments and NGO s critical and up to date reflections on some of the most prominent discussions on penality in Europe today Reinventing Punishment Michele Pifferi, 2016 Providing a historical analysis of the impact of criminology on the rationale of punishment and the sentencing systems in Europe and the US between the 1870s and the 1930s Reinventing Punishment A Comparative History of Criminology and Penology in the 19th and 20th Century investigates and contrasts the rise of the principles of individualisation of punishment social defence preventive justice and indeterminate sentencing The manner in which American and European jurisprudence enforced these ideas resulted in the emergence of two different penological identities the American penal reform movement led to the adoption of the indeterminate sentence system whereas the European criminological approach resulted in the formulation of the dual track system with punishment and measures of security This theoretical divide discussed at many international congresses and in studies of comparative criminal law not only reflects two different ideas on the legitimacy and purpose of punishment but also corresponds to two different constitutional views of criminal law The book considers the relation between constitutional frameworks rule of law and Rechtsstaat and penological claims explaining how some of the tenets of penal liberalism such as principle of legality and separation of powers were affected by penal modernism even with the rise of authoritarian regimes It examines the dilemmas provoked by criminology focusing on the role of the judge in the execution of sentences the distribution of sentencing powers among judicial and administrative bodies the balance between social security and individual guarantees and the inconsistencies of preventive detention Filling a notable gap in Anglo American literature by providing a sophisticated panoramic analysis of the development of criminology in late nineteenth and first half of the twentieth century Europe Reinventing Punishment will be of interest to scholars of criminology criminal law and criminal justice studies as well as legal historians and theorists Punish and Critique Adrian Howe, 1994 Over the past twenty five years a range of critical that is Marxist poststructuralist and less frequently feminist perspectives has been brought to bear on the subject of punishment and in particular on the question of imprisonment in Western capitalist societies

Considered together these critical views constitute a formidable challenge to traditional ways of conceptualising punishment Yet for all the advances made the new critical perspectives remain deeply flawed in a significant but as yet barely acknowledged way with very few exceptions they are profoundly masculinist Punish and Critique begins the task of exploring what a theoretically informed feminist analysis of penality might look like and in the process uncovers a series of disjunctions in the recent critical analyses for example disjunctions between social histories of prison regimes on men and feminist histories of the imprisonment of women Most crucially the book unveils a radical disengagement between two current critical theoretical projects masculinist studies of the emergence of punishment regimes in the context of the state s power to punish and feminist studies which map the differential impact of disciplinary power on lived female bodies In Punish and Critique Adrian Howe argues that a more fully social understanding of punishment must be informed by feminist research on women s imprisonment and by poststructuralist studies of the disciplining of women s bodies Punish and Critique will be invaluable reading to all students lecturers and professionals in criminology women's studies and sociology as well as to those working in prisons and the probation service Monitoring Penal Policy in Europe Gaëtan Cliquennois, Hugues de Suremain, 2020-12-18 The process of judicial control over institutions is often described as growing socio legal trend which impacts the development of modern societies. This is particularly the case for prisons and other penal institutions as international bodies and the courts have tried to influence prison policies since the 1960s This book addresses this dynamic situation by focusing on European monitoring as a major influence on penal and prison policies within between and across nation states Bringing together experts from around Europe this book actively contributes to debates and analysis within penal and prison policy studies by shedding lights on the impacts of monitoring and demonstrates how the study of penal and prison reform in different European countries can contribute to building a clearer and more precise picture of European legal systems This book will be of interest to researchers in the fields of prisons penology and punishment as well as policymakers and professionals working for national Ministries of Justice and for prison department and national human rights institutions as well as those working for INGOs and NGOs The New Punitiveness John Pratt, David Brown, Mark Brown, Simon Hallsworth, Wayne Morrison, 2013-06-17 Throughout much of the western world more and more people are being sent to prison one of a number of changes inspired by a new punitiveness in penal and political affairs This book seeks to understand these developments bringing together leading authorities in the field to provide a wide ranging analysis of new penal trends compare the development of differing patterns of punishment across different types of societies and to provide a range of theoretical analyses and commentaries to help understand their significance As well as increases in imprisonment this book is also concerned to address a number of other aspects of the new punitiveness firstly the return of a number of forms of punishment previously thought extinct or inappropriate such as the return of shaming punishments and chain gangs in parts of the USA and secondly the increasing public involvement in penal affairs and penal development for example in relation to

length of sentences and the California Three Strikes Law and a growing accreditation of the rights of victims The book will be essential reading for students seeking to understand trends and theories of punishment on law criminology penology and Punishment, Restorative Justice and the Morality of Law Erik Claes, René Foqué, Tony Peters, 2005 Critics take the unclear status of restorative justice practices along with their vagueness in meaning and purpose as a clear invitation to a fundamental questioning of the legitimacy of these practices. Their supporters consider the experiment of restorative justice as a platform for reforming penal institutions and for rethinking the legitimacy of orthodox legal reasoning Within the framework of a rechtsstaat a democratic state governed by fundamental rights and by the rule of law both issues of legitimacy lead not only to reflection on concepts such as restoration punishment or on such notions as harm and wrong Questioning the legitimacy both of restorative justice practices and of the prevailing penal system also inevitably involves some reflection on and articulation of the underlying values and normative aspirations of such a democratic constitutional state What are these values and how can they be given appropriate expression in the leading concepts and principles of the criminal law To what extent are fundamental rights and principles of the rule of law sufficiently reflected in the practices of restorative justice. How are these practices to be related to the criminal justice system according to the normative aspirations of a democratic constitutional state To what degree can current penal practices be made continuous with these aspirations These fundamental questions formed the intellectual framework for the 10th Aguinas Conference on Restorative Justice Punishment and the Morality of Law at which conference the larger part of the papers published in this volume were presented Consistent with the structure of the conference this collection of essays is organised into three parts each focussing on one central topic and containing a lead essay and corresponding replies The first part offers critical scrutiny of one of the cornerstones of a criminal justice system governed by the rule of law namely the principle of legality Efforts are made to empower this principle through reflection on its underlying values and aspirations and this in order to meet some of the legitimate ideals and concerns of restorative justice These efforts are subsequently assessed from both sociological and philosophical perspectives In the second part attention is drawn to the legitimacy of restorative justice practices Here the normative intuitions of a democratic constitutional state serve either as a critical framework to assess these practices or more optimistically as ideals to whose realisation restorative justice is supposed to make a valuable contribution And finally in the third part reflection on the value of restorative justice brings us to a fundamental questioning of the legitimacy of punishment and penal practices Central to the discussion is whether it is possible to interpret and normatively reconstruct the idea and practice of punishment so as to make them compatible with and even continuous with the underlying values of a democratic constitutional state Reinventing Punishment Michele Pifferi, 2016 Providing a historical analysis of the impact of criminology on the rationale of punishment and the sentencing systems in Europe and the US between the 1870s and the 1930s Reinventing Punishment A Comparative History of Criminology and Penology in the 19th and 20th Century
