Furnishing The Mind Concepts And Their Perceptual Basis Representation And Mind Series:

Furnishing the Mind Jesse J. Prinz, 2004-08-20 Western philosophy has long been divided between empiricists who argue that human understanding has its basis in experience and rationalists who argue that reason is the source of knowledge. A central issue in the debate is the nature of concepts: the internal representations we use to think about the world. The traditional empiricist thesis that concepts are built up from sensory input has fallen out of favor. Mainstream cognitive science tends to echo the rationalist tradition with its emphasis on innateness. In Furnishing the Mind, Jesse Prinz attempts to swing the pendulum back toward empiricism. Prinz provides a critical survey of leading theories of concepts, including imagism, definitionism, prototype theory, exemplar theory, the theory theory, and informational atomism. He sets forth a new defense of concept empiricism that draws on philosophy, neuroscience, and psychology, and introduces a new version of concept empiricism called proxytype theory. He also provides accounts of abstract concepts, intentionality, narrow content, and concept combination. In an extended discussion of innateness, he covers Noam Chomsky's arguments for the innateness of grammar, developmental psychologists' arguments for innate cognitive domains, and Jerry Fodor's argument for radical concept nativism.

Biologically Inspired Cognitive Architectures 2018 Alexei V. Samsonovich, 2018-08-23 The book focuses on original approaches intended to support the development of biologically inspired cognitive architectures. It bridges together different disciplines from classical artificial intelligence to linguistics, from neuro and social sciences to design and creativity, among others. The chapters, based on contributions presented at the Ninth Annual Meeting of the BICA Society held in on August 23-24, 2018 in Prague, Czech Republic, discuss emerging methods, theories, and ideas towards the realization of general purpose humanlike artificial intelligence, or fostering a better understanding of the ways the human mind works. All in all, the book provides engineers, mathematicians, psychologists, computer scientists, and other experts with a timely snapshot of recent research and a source of inspiration for future developments in the broadly intended areas of artificial intelligence and biological inspiration.

Forms of Representation in the Aristotelian Tradition. Volume Three: Concept Formation, 2022-04-11 The trilogy Forms of Representation in the Aristotelian Tradition investigates how Aristotle and his ancient and medieval successors understood the relation between the external world and the human mind. It gives an equal footing to the three most influential linguistic traditions: Greek, Latin, and Arabic, and offers insightful interpretations of historical theories of perception, dreaming, and thinking. This final volume focuses on intellectual operations and analyses some of the most exciting issues pertaining to the conceptual representation of the external world. The contributions cover the historical traditions and their impact on contemporary philosophy of mind.

1 Corporeal Theology Tobias Tanton, 2022-12-06 Appropriating insights from empirical findings and theoretical constructs of embodied cognition this study explores how theological understanding is accommodated to the bodily nature of human cognition The principle of divine accommodation provides a theological framework for considering the human cognitive capacities that are accommodated by theological concepts and ecclesial practices A rich portrait of the nature of human cognitive capacities is drawn from an emerging paradigm in cognitive science embodied cognition which proposes that cognition depends upon bodily sensorimotor systems to ground concepts and to draw upon environmental resources Embodied cognition's hypothesis that human concepts are grounded in sensorimotor states poses a theological quandary for God concepts since identifying God with sensorimotor content risks idolatry The incarnation resolves this problem in theological epistemology by grounding God concepts in bodily understanding while avoiding idolatry Thus the incarnation represents an accommodation to human conceptual capacities Embodied cognition further hypothesises that cognition relies on sensorimotor engagement with the world rather than internal mental representations Subsequently in addition to the brain bodily states and environmental artefacts scaffold cognitive processes A scaffolded view of cognition highlights the cognitive import of embodied religious practices which choreograph the body and curate material culture Tobias Tanton applies dozens of studies identifying mechanisms by which bodily or environmental factors influence cognition to the embodied and material dimensions Christian practices On account of their inherent cognitive effects practices are theorised to have intrinsic embodied meanings alongside symbolic ones established by conventions Consequently liturgy is seen as a bearer of theological content rather than merely an expression of it a locus of religious experience and a crucial determinate of religious and ethical formation Again the embodied nature of Christian liturgy is understood in terms of accommodation Embodied cognition research helpfully illuminates the details of human embodiment to which theological understanding must be accommodated

Linking Perception and Cognition Michela C. Tacca, 2013 Perception and cognition are tightly related As our primary mode of contact with the world perception is the informational and causal foundation of our cognitive processes it is fundamental to our empirical thinking believing and action planning Traditional accounts of the mind consider perception and cognition to be distinct yet highly interrelated systems Much interdisciplinary empirical and theoretical work from cognitive scientists and philosophers has attempted to elucidate the complex relations holding among these systems suggesting the existence not only of influences of perception on cognition but also vice versa However many questions are left unanswered Given that perception is a guide to our thinking about and acting upon the world appropriately the two systems must be able to talk to one another information carried by perception must be of a form adequate to be taken in by our various cognitive systems The question arises What kinds of structural similarities must hold between perceptual and cognitive representations for such communication to be possible And how exactly do perceptual and cognitive representations interact Some researchers have argued that the links between perception and cognition are so tight as to instill doubt as to the significance of the distinction between the two systems in the first place Yet others insist that perception and cognition remain distinct The aim of this Research Topic is to deepen our understanding of the kinds of interaction among perception and cognition and of the nature of the representational structures that would enable such interaction Provided by publisher
