Classical Traditions in Science Fiction Brett M. Rogers,Benjamin Eldon Stevens,2015 For all its concern with change in the present and future science fiction is deeply rooted in the past and surprisingly engages especially deeply with the ancient world Indeed both as an area in which the meaning of classics is actively transformed and as an open ended set of texts whose own classic status is a matter of ongoing debate science fiction reveals much about the roles played by ancient classics in modern times Classical Traditions in Science Fiction is the first collection in English dedicated to the study of science fiction as a site of classical receptions offering a much needed mapping of that important cultural and intellectual terrain This volume discusses a wide variety of representative examples from both classical antiquity and the past four hundred years of science fiction beginning with science fiction s rosy fingered dawn and moving toward the other worldly literature of the present day As it makes its way through the eras of science fiction Classical Traditions in Science Fiction exposes the many levels on which science fiction engages the ideas of the ancient world from minute matters of language and structure to the larger thematic and philosophical concerns Books Out Loud ,2007 Discovery Eric Flaum,1990 Retells major exploratory achievements beginning with the discovery of Australia through the North and South Poles in words and pictures Discover ,2001 The Multimedia and CD-ROM Directory ,1998 Anthology of Children's Literature Evelyn Ray Sickels,Frances Clarke Sayers,1970 An anthology of nursery rhymes poetry epics mythology and folklore fiction and non fiction for children Appendices include notes on storytelling the history of children s literature illustrators of children s books children s book awards graded reading lists and biographical sketches Magic Or Not? Edward Eager,1959 When Laura and her brother move to their Connecticut home they found an old well which seems to grant all their wishes The Publishers' Trade List Annual ,1905
