Developmental Disability, Mental Handicap in Africa Robert Serpell,Dabie Nabuzoka,F. E. A. Leši,1989 Disability in Different Cultures Brigitte Holzer,Arthur Vreede,Gabriele Weigt,1999 How are disability and rehabilitation conceived of in different cultures How can these concepts be made accessible Studies from the fields of sociology ethnology and educational science address these questions while contributors from rehabilitation projects in development cooperation and from self help movements highlight culturally different perceptions of disability A distinctive feature of this volume is the dialogue it creates by bringing together scientific praxis and practical work This book is a collection of virtually all the contributions presented and discussed at the symposium Local Concepts and Beliefs about Disability in Different Cultures Here people with disabilities from both North and South met with special education professionals people working in development cooperation organizations and students and academics from different disciplines concerned with disability and started a dialogue which is reflected in this volume This dialogue which was initiated at the symposium should serve to continue in greater depth on the basis of this anthology The reader has the further aim of carrying the dialogue beyond the restricted circle of symposium participants and making it accessible and comprehensible to a wider public Disability in Different Cultures is an essential issue in development cooperation On the one hand disabilities whether physical mental or emotional can be seen as parameters for the structural disadvantaging and deficits of the countries with so called catching up development They are very frequently the results of hunger malnutrition and wars Thus NGOs are confronted with the issue of disability regardless of the social and economic areas with which they are concerned Another reason for addressing the issue of Disability in Different Cultures is that it is wide reaching even if it is evident at first glance and relates to the emancipatory potential of the topic In exploring the wide variety of local concepts of and different ideas and beliefs about disability it becomes strikingly clear just how differently a disability may be judged In this light disability can no longer be perceived as a physical psychological or mental characteristic that a person is born with or has acquired in the course of her or his life It becomes evident that to a large degree attitudes and interaction with others which are usual in the respective social context form and influences the nature and extent of a disability thereby determines the life of the disabled person     African Journal of AIDS Research ,2004     The South African Journal of Communication Disorders ,2009     ILO Information ,1973
