Engaging Social Media in China Guobin Yang, Wei Wang, 2021-05-01 Introducing the concept of state sponsored platformization this volume shows the complexity behind the central role the party state plays in shaping social media platforms The party state increasingly penetrates commercial social media while aspiring to turn its own media agencies into platforms Yet state sponsored platformization does not necessarily produce the Chinese Communist Party s desired outcomes Citizens continue to appropriate social media for creative public engagement at the same time that more people are managing their online settings to reduce or refuse connection inducing new forms of crafted resistance to hyper social media connectivity The wide ranging essays presented here explore the mobile radio service Ximalaya FM Alibaba s evolution into a multi platform ecosystem livestreaming platforms in the United States and China the role of Twitter in Trump s North Korea diplomacy user generated content in the news media the emergence of new social agents mediating between state and society social media

art projects Chinese and US scientists use of social media and reluctance to engage with WeChat Ultimately readers will find that the ten chapters in this volume contribute significant new research and insights to the fast growing scholarship on social media in China at a time when online communication is increasingly constrained by international struggles over political control and privacy issues Activism, Campaigning and Political Discourse on Twitter Innocent Chiluwa, Gwen Bourvier, 2019 Social media has increasingly become a strong factor that shapes how we communicate about social and political ideas And it has been argued that Twitter and other social media platforms empower voices that were previously marginalized hold governments accountable and provides opportunities for individuals to network and campaign to achieve social and political reforms In this collection of chapters authors from different academic disciplines coming from different social and political backgrounds and experiences have explored the increasing transformative potentials of Twitter for group advocacy The chapters further illustrate how Twitter serves as a forum for spreading awareness and information on social events as well as for social activism and political discourse Some of the topics explored include Understanding the potential of Twitter for political activism Digital Trump and conflict A multi method analysis The use of Twitter as complementary press on the disappearance of the Malaysia Airlines Flight MH370 Constructing transnational identity through Twitter activism A discourse study of FGM LGBT social media activism in India Online activism in Mali a study of digital discourses of the Movement for the Liberation of Azawad Sousveillance Twitter activists pro democracy governance from below in Middle East Twitter's ethics of freedom in the aftermath of November 2015 Paris attacks through the lens of the anonymous collective etc This collection of chapters written by experts and budding academics from different disciplines will be an invaluable handbook and serves as resource materials for students scholars and practitioners of Communication Political Science and International Relations Law Linguistics Journalism and Media Studies What Social Media Likes Jaigris Nadia Hodson, 2013 Google Facebook and Twitter are arguably synonymous with social media Vaidhyanathan 2011 Yakolev 2007 Levy 2009 Selling the attention spans of internet users to advertisers using content almost entirely created by the labour of others makes these organizations leaders in a media environment that is beginning to redefine the relationship between consumers or prosumers technology and the modern digital organization Drache 2008 Lessig 2008 Rainie and Wellman 2012 Castells 2010 Shirky 2010 As such these organizations often get caught in between public action and other forms of online protest such as the Arab Spring Castells 2012 and their practical business needs to maintain discursive control This dissertation examines the tension between corporate control and user participation as it manifests on the official Google Facebook and Twitter corporate blogs This research employs critical discourse analysis Fairclough 1995 supported by corpus linguistics techniques Stubbs 1996 to analyze each entry from the official Google Facebook and Twitter corporate blogs between 2006 and 2011 When taken together the discourses from these three corporate blogs reveal an underlying media logic otherwise known as social media logic van Dijck 2013 that drives these sites and directs the actions of people who engage with these sites Put simply all three sites have an organizational discourse on the blogs which makes technological develop seem both necessary and inevitable They construct a techno centrism which often comes at the expense of the people who both develop the technologies and the end users These discourses support the commercialization of these sites but do not support the view that these technologies are somehow inherently democratic Shirky 2010 Fortunately however the fact that the business models of social media sites depend on the free contributions of user generated content means that should the people who use these sites decide to fight for change with respect to these organizations they would be uniquely positioned to do so Approaches to Internet Pragmatics Chaoqun Xie, Francisco Yus, Hartmut Haberland, 2021-04-15

Internet mediated communication is pervasive nowadays in an age in which many people shy away from physical settings and often rely instead on social media and messaging apps for their everyday communicative needs Since pragmatics deals with communication in context and how more gets communicated than is said or typed applications of this linguistic perspective to internet communication under the umbrella label of internet pragmatics are not only welcome but necessary The volume covers straightforward applications of pragmatic phenomena to internet interactions as happens with speech acts and contextualization and internet specific kinds of communication such as the one taking place on WhatsApp WeChat and Twitter This collection also addresses the role of emoticons and emoji in typed text dialogues and the importance of physical place in internet interactions exhibiting an interplay of online offline environments as is the case in the role of place in locative media and in broader place related communication as in migration Twitter, the Public Sphere, and the Chaos of Online Deliberation Gwen Bouvier, Judith E. Rosenbaum, 2020-07-29 This volume provides a critical view of the nature and quality of political and civic communication on Twitter The introduction lays out the current state of research showing the continuum of views from the more optimistic to more pessimistic regarding the platform s potential to facilitate civic conversations The eleven empirical case studies in the book provide new insights addressing a variety of topics through a diverse array of methodological approaches Together the chapters provide a counter position to recent studies that offer more celebratory assessments of Twitter s potential The book draws attention to the chaotic insular uncivil and emotionally charged nature of debate and communication on Twitter Political Discourse and Twitter Kelcie Guns, 2018 This study examines the use of political discourse partisan language and gendered language in the media specifically focusing on the social media platform Twitter Language can be used to persuade manipulate and alter the publics perception of events and people Twitter is a new phenomenon that changes and provides new examples of political discourse every day Within the past few years the political functions of this social media site have increased drastically being used by government officials to disseminate information in a unique and unprecedented way Findings reveal the serious implications of these language choices on the public and the way that specific tweets can incite political movements Social Media and Society Majid KhosraviNik, 2023-04-15 Social Media and Society brings together a range of scholars working at the intersection of discourse studies digital media and society It is meant to respond to changes in discourse technologies i e the technodiscursive dynamic of social media discourses The book critically engages with the digital dynamics of representations around discourses of identity politics and culture Other than its topical focus on highly pertinent discourses the book aspires to offer some fresh insights into the theory methods and implementation of CDS in digital environments The book can be viewed as part of the developing research framework of Social Media Critical Discourse Studies which seeks to integrate the impact of new mediation technologies on discursive meaning making with its critical contextualisation In addition to its strongly global outlook the book incorporates a wide range of research perspectives including CDA sociolinguistics political discourse studies media and technology discourse theory popular culture feminism etc Digital International Relations Corneliu Bjola,Markus Kornprobst,2023-11-03 This book analyses how digital transformation disrupts established patterns of world politics moving International Relations IR increasingly towards Digital International Relations This volume examines technological agential and ordering processes that explain this fundamental change The contributors trace how digital disruption changes the international world we live in ranging from security to economics from human rights advocacy to deep fakes and from diplomacy to international law The book makes two sets of contributions First it shows that the ongoing digital revolution profoundly changes every major dimension of international politics Second focusing on the interplay of technology agency and order it provides a framework for explaining these changes The book also provides a map for adjusting the study of international politics to studying International Relations making a case for upgrading augmenting and rewiring the discipline Theory follows practice in International Relations but if the discipline wants to be able to meaningfully analyse the present and come up with plausible scenarios for the future it must not lag too far behind major transformations of the world that it studies This book facilitates that theoretical journey This book will be of much interest to students of cyber politics politics and technology and International Relations Islam Tweets. Changing Power Structures due to Social Media Mathias Hörlesberger,2019-09-02 We have reached a point of connectivity and information sharing unprecedented in human history undoubtedly influencing all spheres of society Since the introduction of the web 2 0 and with it the rise of social media platforms human connectivity has steadily continued increasing This connectivity also promotes news and statements from different religions Mathias Hörlesberger explores how social media and alternative Salafi networks on Twitter challenge the notion of Jihad within a global religious context Hörlesberger examines online group behaviour and particularly religious group behaviour He contributes to the lacking debate on religion and Network Society and New Media Communication By analyzing Twitter content of three Muslim scholars and juxtaposing their content with the ways ISIS uses its Twitter accounts Hörlesberger adds to the ongoing debate of netwar In this book ISIS jihad Muslim Islam web 2 0 Citizen Participation and Political Communication in a Digital World Alex Frame,Gilles Brachotte,2015-11-06 The arrival of the participatory web 2 0 has been hailed by many as a media revolution bringing with it new tools and possibilities for direct political action Through specialised online platforms mainstream social media or blogs citizens in many countries are increasingly seeking to have their voices heard online whether it is to lobby to support or to complain about their elected representatives Politicians too are adopting new media in specific ways though they are often criticised for failing to seize the full potential of online tools to enter into dialogue with their electorates Bringing together perspectives from around the world this volume examines emerging forms of citizen participation in the face of the evolving logics of political communication and provides a unique and original focus on the gap which exists between political uses of digital media by the politicians and by the people they represent Disinformation and Data Lockdown on Social Platforms Shawn

Walker, Dan Mercea, Marco Bastos, 2021-12-26 This book addresses the question of how researchers can conduct independent ethical research on mal mis and disinformation in a rapidly changing and hostile data environment The escalating issue of data access is thrown into sharp relief by the large scale use of bots trolls fake news and strategies of false amplification the effects of which are difficult to quantify due to a corporate environment favouring platform lockdowns and the restriction of access to Application Programming Interfaces APIs As social media platforms increase obstacles to independent scholarship by dramatically curbing access to APIs researchers are faced with the stark choice of either limiting their use of trace data or developing new methods of data collection Without a breakthrough social media research may go the way of search engine research in which only a small group of researchers who have direct relationships with search companies such as Google and Microsoft can access data and conduct research The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Information Communication Society About Imaginary Borders Stefanie Dalvai, 2020-12-15 Diploma Thesis from the year 2020 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Linguistics grade 1 University of Innsbruck language English abstract Othering is a language process which does not only occur in spoken language but also in written Nowadays such a negative portrayal and creation of the perfect other is often happening in a rather hidden and indirect manner This paper explores whether Donald J Trump indulged in the act of Othering in his Tweets and whether this happened in a direct or indirect way The findings lead to an understanding whether Othering is being accepted in politics or not What comes as a blessing has also its downsides as not only positive but also negative opinions are omnipresent on the internet This is due to the possibility to upload almost everything as not every website has a way to censor inappropriate content Furthermore having a filter for written or pictured hate crime does not prevent it from happening as it is not always straight forward and hateful messages can come in disguise An uncountable number of these more or less hidden hate crimes are a sort of Othering as people tend to put themselves in opposition to others to create a sense of solidarity with those who share sameness and to have some excuse to keep up power relationships With this it becomes clear that language itself in the case of this paper explicitly the written one is a powerful tool to exert authority and domination on others especially when used by people in power like politicians Therefore the question this paper tries to answer is how written discourse in the Tweets of

Trump creates the feeling of separation and dominance that underlies the act of Othering and whether this reflects a direct or indirect and with this more subtle and normalized use of power discourse In this thesis only those people Trump constantly portrays as dangerous foreigners intruders therefore not Americans are included in the analysis by looking at how he structures his discourse around them These include Mexicans and Muslims both to be found under the umbrella term of illegal immigrants

Digital Islamophobia Emily Lynell Edwards, 2023-10-24 The rise of far right communities on digital platforms is a global crisis Digital Islamophobia tracks far right groups where they are a virtual and vicious threat exploring how these networks grow develop and circulate Islamophobic hate speech on Twitter Reconstructing this media ecosystem Digital Islamophobia traces the reactionary political ideologies animating these groups through feminist data analytic techniques in a transnational study of German and American far right digitally networked users This work illustrates far right communities using data visualization techniques identifies a taxonomy of user types analyzes themes and stories that motivate far right users and tracks the spread of linked forms of anti Muslim sentiment reactionary ideologies and misinformation In doing so Digital Islamophobia details how far right discourse is not merely national or even transatlantic but increasingly transnationalized among American German as well as Indian and Nigerian digital networks By tracking and tracing the contours of these far right digital communities on Twitter and analyzing the content of their conversations Digital Islamophobia provides policy makers researchers and scholars with a potential road map to stop them
