Do It Yourself Home Improvement In 20th Century America:

Do it Yourself Carolyn M. Goldstein, 1998 Do It Yourself investigates the history behind the current do it yourself craze in homebuilding and home repair. The origins of home improvement can be traced to the early part of the century when government loan programs placed home ownership within the reach of growing numbers of families. Mass circulation magazines began providing their readers with information about home remodeling and repair, and increasing numbers of Americans turned to the manual arts and handicrafts as leisure time pursuits. World War II provided many Americans with the skills and confidence to undertake home improvement projects on their own, and after the war changes in the manufacturing and retail of tools and equipment created new possibilities for transforming one's home. As home remodeling became a central feature of domestic life and consumer culture, the do it yourself movement was born. Coming of age in the baby boomer 1950s and 1960s when Americans created suburban paradises and reclaimed decaying urban centers, the text of Do It Yourself which investigates topics ranging from women's roles in home repair to historic preservation is a lively mix of illustrations including period photographs, magazine spreads, and advertisements, and clearly written analysis of the trends behind these images.

Design History Beyond the Canon Jennifer Kaufmann-Buhler, Victoria Rose Pass, Christopher Wilson, 2019-02-07 Design History Beyond the Canon subverts hierarchies of taste which have dominated traditional narratives of design history. The book explores a diverse selection of objects, spaces, and media ranging from high design to mass produced and mass marketed objects, as well as counter cultural and sub cultural material. The authors' research highlights the often marginalised role of gender and racial identity in the production and consumption of design, the politics which underpins design practice, and the role of designed objects as pathways of nostalgia and cultural memory. While focused primarily on North American examples from the early 20th century onwards, this collection also features essays examining European and Soviet design history, as well as the influence of Asia and Africa on Western design practice. The book is organised in three thematic sections: Consumers, Intermediaries, and Designers. The first section analyses a range of designed objects and spaces through the experiences and perspectives of users. The second section considers intermediaries from both technology and cultural industries, as well as the hidden labour within the design process itself. The final section focuses on designers from multiple design disciplines including high fashion, industrial design, interior design, graphic design, and design history pedagogy. The essays in all three sections utilise different research methods and a wide range of theoretical approaches including feminist theory, critical race theory, spatial theory, material culture studies, science and technology studies, and art history. Design History Beyond the Canon brings together the most recent research which stretches beyond the traditional canon and looks to interdisciplinary methodologies to better understand the practice and consumption of design.
