Documentary For The Small Screen:

Documentary for the Small Screen Paul Kriwaczek, 1997 Film and video have grown to be as significant in our time as books newspapers and magazines Documentary film making is fast becoming as important and useful a skill as the ability to write well Like writing it can be learned by anyone Film and video have grown to be as significant in our time as books newspapers and magazines Documentary film making is fast becoming as important and useful a skill as the ability to write well Like writing it can be learned by anyone Documentary for the small screen is both for those who are new to documentary film making but want to know how to create productions of a professional standard as well as for those already working in the medium who wish to improve their skills by taking a closer look at the way they carry out their tasks It is written in a logical straightforward way the first half taking the reader through an analysis of what documentary actually is to constructing it through developing the story and assembling the appropriate building blocks In the second part the pre production stages of preparing proposals costings and outlines and researching the subject are all carefully examined as are production planning and the shoot followed by the post production stages involved in editing and reviewing the completed film Paul Kriwaczek is an award winning documentary maker who has a wealth of experience to pass on having worked for many years at BBC Television where he wrote directed and produced documentary drama music and science programmes

China on Video Paola Voci, 2010-06-10 China On Video is the first in depth study that examines smaller screen realities and the important role they play not only in the fast changing Chinese mediascape but also more broadly in the practice of experimental and non mainstream cinema At the crossroads of several disciplines film media new media media anthropology visual arts contemporary China area studies and cultural studies this book reveals the existence of a creative humorous but also socially and politically critical China on video which locates itself outside of the intellectual discourse surrounding both auteur cinema and digital art By describing smaller screen movies moviemaking and viewing as light realities Voci points to their insignificant weight in terms of production costs distribution size profit gains intellectual or artistic ambitions but also their deep meaning in defining an alternative way of seeing and understanding the world The author proposes that lightness is a concept that can usefully be deployed to describe the moving image beyond the specificity of recent new media developments and which can in fact help us rethink previous cinematic practices in broad terms both spatially and temporally

Big Picture, Small Screen John Hill, Martin McLoone, 1996 This work features contributions from academics and media professionals who ask what is the history of involvement between film and television in the US Europe Britain and Ireland what are the sources of television finance for film and what are the consequences for the type of film made Slums on Screen Igor Krstic, 2016-04-26 Near to one billion people call slums their home making it a reasonable claim to describe our world as a planet of slums But how has this hard and unyielding way of life been depicted on screen How have filmmakers engaged historically and across the globe with the social conditions of what is often perceived as the world's most miserable habitats Combining approaches from cultural globalisation and film studies Igor Krstic outlines a transnational history of films that either document or fictionalise the favelas shantytowns barrios populares or chawls of our planet of slums exploring the way accelerated urbanisation has intersected with an increasingly interconnected global film culture From Jacob Riis How The Other Half Lives 1890 to Danny Boyle s Slumdog Millionaire 2008 the volume provides a number of close readings of films from different historical periods and regions to outline how contemporary film and media practices relate to their past predecessors demonstrating the way various filmmakers both north and south of the equator have repeatedly grappled with rejected or continuously modified documentary and realist modes to convey life in our planet of slums A2 Film
