Sustainable Development and Disaster Risk Reduction Juha I. Uitto, Rajib Shaw, 2015-11-05 This book focuses on exploring the linkages between natural disasters and sustainable development at the global regional and national levels Disasters and development are closely related yet the disciplinary silos prevail and there is little communication and cooperation between the disaster management environment and development communities One catastrophic event such as an earthquake tsunami or cyclone can destroy infrastructure people's lives and livelihoods and set back development Similarly slow onset disasters often associated with global climate change pose threats to development livelihoods food security and long term sustainable development This book is uniquely aimed at bridging the gaps between the environmental development and disaster management communities It traces the evolution of concepts and practice and highlights the linkages between natural disasters and sustainable development in key sectors including food security health and water The book includes case studies from the field highlighting the complex issues that challenge sustainable development and disaster risk management in practice It draws policy conclusions for the global community based on state of the art knowledge from research and practice The primary target groups for the book are researchers including graduate students in the fields of environment and sustainable development geography disaster risk reduction and climate change studies The second target group comprises practitioners and policymakers working in national and international organizations the private sector and civil society

Education for Sustainable Development UNESCO,2020-11-07      An Interdisciplinary Approach for Disaster Resilience and Sustainability Indrajit Pal,Jason von Meding,Sangam Shrestha,Iftekhhar Ahmed,Thayaparan Gajendran,2019-10-17 This book includes selected papers presented at the international expert forum on Mainstreaming Resilience and Disaster Risk Reduction in Education held at the Asian Institute of Technology Thailand on 1 2 December 2017 The journey towards disaster risk reduction and resilience requires the participation of a wide array of stakeholders ranging from academics to policymakers to disaster managers Given the multifaceted and interdependent nature of disasters disaster risk reduction and resilience require a multidisciplinary problem solving approach and evidence based techniques from the natural social engineering and other relevant sciences Traditionally hazard and disaster related studies have been dominated by the engineering and social science fields In this regard the main purpose of this book is to capture the multidisciplinary and multisectoral nature of disaster risk reduction and to gather existing data research conceptual work and practical cases regarding risk reduction and its ties to sustainable development under a single umbrella Along with the sustainability aspect the book also links disaster risk reduction with development technology governance education and climate change and includes discussions on challenges solutions and best practices in the mainstreaming of disaster risk reduction      Global Change and Future Earth Tom Beer,Jianping Li,Keith Alverson,2018-10-18 Authoritative reviews on the wide ranging ramifications of climate change from an international team of eminent researchers      Global Assessment Report on Disaster Risk Reduction 2023 United Nations Office for Disaster Risk Reduction,2023-09-13 Global warming will surpass 1.5°C above pre industrial levels during the next decade due to greenhouse gas emissions The constant rise in temperatures and related impacts combine with other pressures thus increasing risk and undermining resilience The increasing interconnectedness of people and human systems increases the risk of compound and cascading crises The maps in this report highlight a number of these resilience deficits that are holding back achievement of key sustainable development goals At the same time the report's action case examples show that this is not inevitable and how action is possible on every continent to stop the worsening spiral of risk and disasters and to accelerate SDG target achievement Addressing resilience gaps will require the unprecedented scaling up of resilience investment and adaptation action both from within the public and private sectors particularly for the most vulnerable countries As these investments take time to mobilize and prepare delay will increase the inevitable costs Action is needed now Disaster risk reduction sits at the nexus between development humanitarian and climate change action and can help foster more sustainable resilient action in each Readjusting development pathways requires a re examination of how prosperity is measured and a greater emphasis on resilience as key element of sustainable development today and in the future
