Robert R. Redfield

Educational Research And Policy Making Exploring The Border Country Between Research And Policy:

Educational Research and Policy-making Lesley Saunders, 2007 This book provides a fascinating insight into the sometimes troubled relationship between research and policy making in education It shows how each of these areas of social and intellectual endeavour is in a state of dynamic change and how as a result they are becoming more mutually inter permeable and posing increasingly challenging problems for each other It suggests a number of scenarios for the future development of the relationship and throws down some challenges for both communities Drawing together contributions from the premier league of UK educationalists the book is both thought provoking and anxiously awaited by other academics wanting to learn from the experience of senior researchers

The European Higher Education Area Adrian Curaj, Liviu Matei, Remus Pricopie, Jamil Salmi, Peter Scott, 2015-10-12 Bridging the gap between higher education research and policy making was always a challenge but the recent calls for more evidence based policies have opened a window of unprecedented opportunity for researchers to bring more contributions to shaping the future of the European Higher Education Area EHEA Encouraged by the success of the 2011 first edition Romania and Armenia have organised a 2nd edition of the Future of Higher Education Bologna Process Researchers Conference FOHE BPRC in November 2014 with the support of the Italian Presidency of the European Union and as part of the official EHEA agenda Reuniting over 170 researchers from more than 30 countries the event was a forum to debate the trends and challenges faced by higher education today and look at the future of European cooperation in higher education The research volumes offer unique insights regarding the state of affairs of European higher education and research as well as forward looking policy proposals More than 50 articles focus on essential themes in higher education Internationalization of higher education Financing and governance Excellence and the diversification of missions Teaching learning and student engagement Equity and the social dimension of higher education Education research and innovation Quality assurance The impacts of the Bologna Process on the EHEA and beyond and Evidence based policies in higher education The Bologna process was launched at a time of great optimism about the future of the European project to which of course the reform of higher education across the continent has made a major contribution Today for the present that optimism has faded as economic troubles have accumulated in the Euro zone political tensions have been increased on issues such as immigration and armed conflict has broken out in Ukraine There is clearly a risk that against this troubled background the Bologna process itself may falter There are already signs that it has been downgraded in some countries with evidence of political withdrawal All the more reason for the voice of higher education researchers to be heard Since the first conference they have established themselves as powerful stakeholders in the development of the EHEA who are helping to maintain the momentum of the Bologna process Their pivotal role has been strengthened by the second Bucharest conference Peter Scott Institute of Education London General Rapporteur of the FOHE BPRC first edition

book is centrally concerned with how mathematics education is represented and how we understand mathematical teaching and learning with view to changing them It considers teachers students and researchers It explores their mathematical thinking and the concepts that this thought produces But also how these concepts acquire cultural layers that mediate our apprehension The book examines some of the linguistic and socio cultural filters that influence mathematical understanding But above all it introduces some contemporary theories of human subjectivity in which subjectivity is seen primarily as consequential to rather than productive of our attempts to represent or categorise the world in which we live That is our sense of who we are results from our attempts to see ourselves against the various versions of the world that we encounter Such theories trouble the very notion of mathematical concepts as apprehended by humans And in foregrounding this concern with subjectivity the book considers mathematics rather differently to styles more familiar in many instances of mathematics education research The book proposes that mathematics can provoke us to think differently about our world and as a result enable our transformative capacities Such an orientation may disturb our understanding of what mathematics is how it exists in an objective sense insofar as mathematical objects can be derived from social filters being applied to the world but also serve as filters on the world capable of producing new social entities

Rethinking Educational Practice Through Reflexive Inquiry Nicole Mockler, Judyth Sachs, 2011-04-13 Susan Groundwater Smith is one of the most influential voices in the world of educational practitioner inquiry The convener in Australia of the Coalition of Knowledge Building Schools she is a staunch advocate of innovative methods of practitioner inquiry with a particular emphasis upon student voice and the use of images in capturing young people s perspectives on their learning experience So it is more than fitting that this unique text on practitioner inquiry and teacher professional learning is dedicated to her Rethinking Education Practice Through Reflexive Inquiry is a compilation of essays that explore contemporary issues in practitioner inquiry and action research from the perspective of both university based and school based authors The essays discuss the practical political and theoretical dimensions of practitioner inquiry advancing the argument that the adoption of an inquiring approach to practice is both an integral dimension of teachers work in the modern school as well as critical to effective and authentic professional learning And the essays draw on the work of Groundwater Smith to demonstrate the benefits brought to bear on schools teachers and learners when the complex nature of the relationship between inquiry and practice is understood and acted upon in pursuit of democratic knowledge interests

What is Philosophy of Education—Its Past, Present, and Future? Liz Jackson, 2025-11-28 Is philosophy of education 100 years old 300 years old or even older What is philosophy of education and what is its relationship to the fields of education and philosophy This collection of articles from the journal Educational Philosophy and Theory examines debates about the nature of philosophy of education its history and its development and the way forward over the past 50 years As a journey through the journal archives shows there has been a lively reckoning over time with what constitutes philosophy of education and its past present and future in different geographic locations such as the United States the United Kingdom and Australasia How philosophy of education should be practiced in terms of methodology and its relationship with schooling and policy making have been continually questioned over the years as scholars in the field consider the nature of knowledge and learning and its relationship with values and social contexts Readers interested in the history and current state of debates in educational philosophy and theory and scholars of educational policy and practice will enjoy exploring this collection which provides a strong basis for further theorizing about what is and should be philosophy of education Future-oriented science
