A Historical Perspective on Evidence-Based Immunology Edward J. Moticka, 2015-11-25 A Historical Perspective on Evidence Based Immunology focuses on the results of hypothesis driven controlled scientific experiments that have led to the current understanding of immunological principles The text helps beginning students in biomedical disciplines understand the basis of immunologic knowledge while also helping more advanced students gain further insights The book serves as a crucial reference for researchers studying the evolution of ideas and scientific methods including fundamental insights on immunologic tolerance interactions of lymphocytes with antigen TCR and BCR the generation of diversity and mechanism of tolerance of T cells and B cells the first cytokines the concept of autoimmunity the identification of NK cells as a unique cell type the structure of antibody molecules and identification of Fab and Fc regions and dendritic cells Provides a complete review of the hypothesis driven controlled scientific experiments that have led to our current understanding of immunological principles Explains the types of experiments that were performed and how the interpretation of the experiments altered the understanding of immunology Presents concepts such as the division of lymphocytes into functionally different populations in their historical context Includes fundamental insights on immunologic tolerance interactions of lymphocytes with antigen TCR and BCR and the generation of diversity and mechanism of tolerance of T and B cells 9th Circuit Update ,2003 The COVID-19 Pandemic Klaus Rose, 2022-03-01 The COVID 19 Pandemic A Global High Tech Challenge at the Interface of Science Politics and Illusions discusses COVID 19 as the first pandemic in the Internet era and our current reality of continuous reports news and updates Since its beginning we were daily bombarded with news of what was happening around the world There was no global political leadership The United States was politically partially paralyzed Russia and China hoped to gain diplomatic profile worldwide but their vaccines are of limited efficacy and trust in their clinical data is rightly low The European Union did not order enough vaccines in time but sued a large manufacturer for delivery delays Now it is setting up yet another bureaucratic institution At least the pharmaceutical or life science industry paved the way out but is not enthusiastically praised for it It would be too easy and superficial to blame mistakes of governments and leaders on stupidity Idiocy exists but we have to go deeper to understand how illusions and blind spots in today s common perception and science inertia arrogance conflicts of interest competition of individuals and states and institutions for public recognition have contributed to a multitude of flawed assessments and direct mistakes Healthcare professionals and anyone interested in an in depth understanding of humankind s response to the COVID 19 challenge will not get around the key conclusions of this book Outlines key elements of modern civilization public health and drug and vaccine development on the background of the COVID 19 pandemic Discusses the historical roots of separate drug approval of vaccines and drugs in administratively classified children of whom many are bodily mature long before their 16th or 18th birthday and why the belated approval of vaccines against COVID 19 in minors is not based on science but on blurs and conflicts of interest Outlines key elements we need to address to become better prepared for future global health challenges In the first place we do not need new institutions but to overcome intellectual barriers and blind spots

Immunology: The Making of a Modern Science Richard B. Gallagher, Jean Gilder, Gustav J.V. Nossal, Gaetano Salvatore, 1995-07-14 Immunology has progressed in spectacular fashion in the last four decades Studies of the response to infectious agents transplanted organs and tumours and the potential to manipulate that response and the study of the immune system as a model system in molecular cell biology have yielded dramatic advances in our understanding of the mechanisms of immunity The field has attracted a continuous stream of the brightest theoretical and experimental scientists for over forty years This book conveys the philosophies and approaches of sixteen of the most successful of these scientists in the form of a series of narratives that describe the circumstances that led to a major discovery in immunology Contributors not only recall an exciting period of research that helped shape modern immunology but set it in the personal context of place and time Jacques Miller for example describes the discovery of the function of the thymus Rolf Zinkernagel explains how experiments on viral immunity led to the discovery of MHC restriction and Susumu Tonegawa provides an account of how antibody gene structure was defined Medically important discoveries include descriptions of early studies of autoimmunity by Noel Rose and of tumour immunology by George and Eva Klein Far from being a collection of disinterested historical accounts this volume comprises a series of passionately biographical personal essays that provide an unusually intimate insight into the scientific process This book will be essential and fascinating reading for all those with an interest in immunology and in the life sciences in general For students and teachers this will provide the background necessary for a true understanding of immunology and to place subsequent discoveries in perspective

Crafting Immunity Jennifer Keelan, 2016-11-15 Immunity is as old as illness itself yet historians have only just begun to take up the challenge of reconstructing the modern transformation of attempts to protect against disease Crafting Immunity assembles in one volume the most recent efforts of an international group of scholars to place the diverse practices of immunity in their historical contexts It is this diversity that provides the book with its greatest source of strength Collectively the papers in this volume suggest that it was the craft like small scale and local conditions of clinical medicine that turned the immunity of individuals and populations into biomedical objects That is to say the modern conception of immunity was at least as much the product of the work of healing as it was the systematic result of discoveries about the immune system Working outside the narrow confines of laboratory histories Crafting Immunity is the first attempt to set the problems of immunity into a variety of social technological institutional and intellectual contexts It will appeal not only to historians and sociologists of health but also to social and cultural historians interested in the biomedical creation of modern health regimens
