Visualising Business Transformation Jonathan Whelan, Stephen Whitla, 2020-01-24. Business transformation typically involves a wide range of visualisation techniques from the templates and diagrams used by managers to make better strategic choices to the experience maps used by designers to understand customer needs, the technical models used by architects to propose possible solutions and the pictorial representations used by change managers to engage stakeholder groups in dialogue. Up until now, these approaches have always been dealt with in isolation in the literature as well as in practice. This is surprising because although they can look very different and tend to be produced by distinct groups of people, they are all modelling different aspects of the same thing. Visualising Business Transformation draws them together for the first time into a coherent whole so that readers from any background can expand their repertoire and understand the context and rationale for each technique across the transformation lifecycle. The book will appeal to a broad spectrum of readers involved in change, whether that is by creating change models themselves: strategists, architects, designers, engineers, business analysts, developers, illustrators, graphic facilitators, etc.; interpreting and using them: sponsors, business change managers, portfolio programme project managers, communicators, change champions, etc.; or supporting those involved in change: indirectly, trainers, coaches, mentors, higher education establishments and professional training facilities. Creativity in the Sciences Michael L. Goodman, Aisha S. Dickerson, Roberta B. Ness, 2013-01-11. Learning to think innovatively requires practice. This workbook, which serves as a companion to Roberta Ness's Innovation Generation: How to Produce Creative and Useful Scientific Ideas, provides over 150 exercises and activities to hone creative problem-solving skills. Workbook tasks include improvisation, insight exercises and generative skill building. Each chapter addresses doubts that individuals harbor concerning their ability to improve their innovative output, the techniques to work around frames, metaphors and biases in thinking, manipulatives to rearrange problem conceptualization, insight intuition, collective innovative output from groups and social and environmental factors that affect creative thinking. The workbook features straightforward and heuristic exercises for both individuals and groups. Facilitating Professional Scrum Teams Patricia Kong, Claudia Califano, David Spinks, 2023-12-08. The Connected Company Dave Gray, Thomas Vander Wal, 2012-08-30 The future of work is already here Customers are adopting disruptive technologies faster than your company can adapt When your customers are delighted they can amplify your message in ways that were never before possible But when your company's performance runs short of what you've promised customers can seize control of your brand message spreading their disappointment and frustration faster than you can keep up To keep pace with today's connected customers your company must become a connected company That means deeply engaging with workers partners and customers changing how work is done how you measure success and how performance is rewarded It requires a new way of thinking about your company less like a machine to be controlled and more like a complex dynamic system that can learn and adapt over time Connected companies have the advantage because they learn and move faster than their competitors While others work in isolation they link into rich networks of possibility and expand their influence Connected companies around the world are aggressively acquiring customers and disrupting the competition In The Connected Company we examine what they're doing how they're doing it and why it works And we show you how your company can use the same principles to adapt and thrive in today's ever-changing global marketplace Gamestorming :
