lens of generational change to deconstruct an intriguing array of social identities that had little to do with the official GDR version authoritarian rulers regularly sought to impose on their citizens The author compares the identities of five societal subgroups GDR writers and intellectuals pastors and dissidents women youth and working class men exploring the policies defining their lives and status before during after the 1989 Wende as well as the diverging exit voice and loyalty dilemmas encountered by each The dialectical components treated in this work center on the extent to which eastern identities were lost found and reconfigured across three generations from 1949 to 1989 from 1990 to 2005 then up to 2020 It explores how the existence of a separate East German state and the socialization processes imposed on each subculture has not only complicated the search for national unity since 1990 but also perhaps more controversially invoked new challenges directly related to ongoing East West structural disparities since unification and the treatment of eastern Germans by often more privileged western Germans
