Philosophical Issues of Human Cyborgization and the Necessity of Prolegomena on Cyborg Ethics Greguric, Ivana, 2021-10-22 We are currently living in an age of scientific humanism Cyborgs robots avatars and biotechnologically created beings are new entities that exist alongside biological human beings As with many emerging technologies many people will find the concept foreign and frightening There is a strong possibility that these entities will be mistreated Philosophical Issues of Human Cyborgization and the Necessity of Prolegomena on Cyborg Ethics discusses the ethics of human cyborgization as well as emerging technologies of robots and avatars that exhibit human like qualities The chapters build a strong case for the necessity of cyborg ethics and protocols for preserving the vitality of life within an ever advancing technological society Covering topics such as cyborg hacking historical reality and naturalism this book is a dynamic resource for scientists ethicists cyber behavior professionals students and professors of both technological and philosophical studies faculty of higher education philosophers AI engineers healthcare professionals researchers and academicians Enhancement Fit for Humanity Michael Baggot, Alberto García Gómez, Alberto Carrara, Joseph Tham, 2021-11-29 This book explores what constitutes an enhancement fit for humanity in the age of nanotechnologies biotechnologies information technologies and technologies related to the cognitive sciences It considers the influence of emergent technology upon our understanding of human nature and the impact on future generations Drawing on the Catholic tradition in particular the book gathers international contributions from scientific philosophical legal and religious perspectives Together they offer a positive step in an ongoing dialogue regarding the promises and perils of emergent technology for man s integral human development The Ethics of Sports Technologies and Human Enhancement Thomas H. Murray, Voo Teck Chuan, 2020-07-26 This volume presents articles which focus on the ethical evaluation of performance enhancing technologies in sport The collection considers whether drug doping should be banned the rationale of not banning ethically contested innovations such as hypoxic chambers and the implications of the prospects of human genetic engineering for the notion of sport as a development of natural talent towards human excellence The essays demonstrate the significance of the principles of preventing harm ensuring fairness and preserving meaning to appraise whether a particular performance enhancer is acceptable in the context of sport Selected essays on various forms of human enhancement outside of sport that highlight other principles and concepts are included for comparative purpose Sport enhancement provides a useful starting point to work through the ethics of enhancement in other human practices and endeavors and sport enhancement ethics should track broader bioethical debates on human enhancement As a whole the volume points to the need to consider the values and meanings that people seek in a given sphere of human activity and their associated principles to arrive at a morally grounded and reasonable approach to enhancement ethics Theological Neuroethics Neil Messer, 2017-10-19 Neil Messer brings together a range of theoretical and practical questions raised by current research on the human brain questions about both the ethics of neuroscience and the neuroscience of ethics While some of these are familiar to theologians others have been more or less ignored hitherto and the field of neuroethics as a whole has received little theological attention Drawing on both theological ethics and the science and theology field Messer discusses cognitive scientific and neuroscientific studies of religion arguing that they do not give grounds to dismiss theological perspectives on the human self He examines a representative range of topics across the whole field of neuroethics including consciousness the self and the value of human life the neuroscience of morality determinism freewill and moral responsibility and the ethics of cognitive enhancement Seeking Medicine's Moral Centre Tom Koch, 2025-01-16 For the first time in two millennia the Hippocratic ethic of medical care has been supplanted by a new bioethics The bottom up set of injunctions to care of the patient and for society ha been replaced by a top down commercial ethic focused on patient autonomy in a limited system of medical care To understand this transformation and its the effect Seeking Medicine s Moral Centre focuses on the issue of medical aid in dying MAiD in Canada Uniquely it introduces ethnography as a tool to parse a set of academic and public articles reflecting the changing face of medical ethics from 1996 to the present In doing so it joins the professional and the popular as a single dataset It is the first book to seriously critique bioethics as a medical ethic through its focus on medical aid in dying as a still contested program in care of the chronically ill and fragile Key audiences include journalists medical anthropologists and sociologists ethicists and bioethicists medical and scientific researchers and policy makers

Technologies of Life and Death Kelly Oliver,2013-06-03 Uses insights of deconstructive philosophy Derrida to look closely at issues of technologically mediated life and death

Neuroscience and Law Antonio D'Aloia,Maria Chiara Errigo,2020-06-01 There have been extraordinary developments in the field of neuroscience in recent years sparking a number of discussions within the legal field This book studies the various interactions between neuroscience and the world of law and explores how neuroscientific findings could affect some fundamental legal categories and how the law should be implemented in such cases The book is divided into three main parts Starting with a general overview of the convergence of neuroscience and law the first part outlines the importance of their continuous interaction the challenges that neuroscience poses for the concepts of free will and responsibility and the peculiar characteristics of a new cognitive liberty In turn the second part addresses the phenomenon of cognitive and moral enhancement as well as the uses of neurotechnology and their impacts on health self determination and the concept of being human The third and last part investigates the use of neuroscientific findings in both criminal and civil cases and seeks to determine whether they can provide valuable evidence and facilitate the assessment of personal responsibility helping to resolve cases The book is the result of an interdisciplinary dialogue involving jurists philosophers neuroscientists forensic medicine specialists and scholars in the humanities further it is intended for a broad readership interested in understanding the impacts of scientific and technological developments on people s lives and on our social systems
