Environmental Justice And Racism In Canada An Introduction:

Environmental Justice and Racism in Canada Andil Gosine, Cheryl Teelucksingh, 2008      Environmental Justice and the Rights of Indigenous Peoples Laura Westra, 2012-05-16 More than 300 million people in over 70 countries make up the world's indigenous populations. Yet despite ever growing pressures on their lands, environment and way of life through outside factors such as climate change and globalization their rights in these and other respects are still not fully recognized in international law. In this incisive book Laura Westra deftly reveals the lethal effects that damage to ecological integrity can have on communities. Using examples in national and international case law she demonstrates how their lack of sufficient legal rights leaves indigenous peoples defenceless time and again in the face of governments and businesses who have little effective incentive to consult with them let alone gain their consent in going ahead with relocations, mining plans and more. The historical background and current legal instruments are discussed and through examples from the Americas, Africa, Oceania and the special case of the Arctic a picture emerges of how things must change if indigenous communities are to survive. It is a warning to us all from the example of those who live most closely in tune with nature and are the first to feel the impact when environmental damage goes unchecked      Cleaner, Greener, Healthier David R. Boyd, 2015-09-01 Despite Canada's enduring image as a natural paradise every year thousands of Canadians become ill or die prematurely as a result of exposure to environmental hazards. Canadians understand that their health is inextricably linked to the health of the environment and are deeply concerned about the impacts of toxic substances on themselves and their children. In Cleaner Greener Healthier David R. Boyd sets out to remedy Canada's environmental health problems. He begins by assessing the environmental burden of disease, identifies its unequal distribution along racial and socio-economic lines and estimates the associated economic costs. He then compares Canadian environmental laws and policies with those in the United States, Australia and the European Union, delivering a provocative diagnosis of the root causes of Canada's second rate standards. Finally drawing on strategies that protect citizens in other countries Boyd prescribes legal remedies that will enable Canada to catch up with the world's environmental leaders while delivering substantial health and economic benefits      Race and Environmental Justice in the Era of Climate Change and COVID-19 Tatiana Konrad, 2025-08-01 Informed by transdisciplinary research in social and environmental justice Race and Environmental Justice in the Era of Climate Change and COVID 19 is a contribution to the scholarly discourse as well as a form of activism for environmental, climate and health justice. Using race and Indigeneity as an analytical lens the book explores how justice in the era of climate change and COVID 19 is envisioned, depicted and achieved. With a focus largely on humans and environments its explorations of injustice illustrate the wide health and safety gaps between individuals, communities and even nations living under different environmental conditions. The volume also moves beyond the human toward justice for all beings. This book foregrounds voices from world communities, provides solutions to environmental and health crises and advances environmental justice.

Lessons in Environmental Justice Michael Mascarenhas, 2020-07-30 This book provides the works of individuals who are creating a wave of environmental justice scholarship methodology and activism A theme throughout the book is how vulnerable and marginalized populations bear a disproportionate share of environmental risks Each reading concludes with a suggested assignment

Environmental Racism in the United States and Canada Bruce E. Johansen, 2020-04-14 From Flint Michigan to Standing Rock North Dakota minorities have found themselves losing the battle for clean resources and a healthy environment This book provides a modern history of such environmental injustices in the United States and Canada From the 19th century extermination of the buffalo in the American West to Alaska's Project Chariot a Cold War initiative that planned to use atomic bombs to blast out a harbor on Eskimo land to the struggle for recovery and justice in Puerto Rico following Hurricane Maria in 2017 this book provides readers with an enhanced understanding of how poor and minority people are affected by natural and manmade environmental crises Written for students as well as the general reader with an interest in social justice and environmental issues this book traces the relationship between environmental discrimination race and class through a comprehensive case history of environmental injustices Environmental Racism in the United States and Canada Seeking Justice and Sustainability includes 50 such case studies that range from local to national to international crises

There's Something In The Water Ingrid R. G. Waldron, 2018-07-04T00:00:00Z In There's Something In The Water Ingrid R G Waldron examines the legacy of environmental racism and its health impacts in Indigenous and Black communities in Canada using Nova Scotia as a case study and the grassroots resistance activities by Indigenous and Black communities against the pollution and poisoning of their communities Using settler colonialism as the overarching theory Waldron unpacks how environmental racism operates as a mechanism of erasure enabled by the intersecting dynamics of white supremacy power state sanctioned racial violence neoliberalism and racial capitalism in white settler societies By and large the environmental justice narrative in Nova Scotia fails to make race explicit obscuring it within discussions on class and this type of strategic inadvertence mutes the specificity of Mi kmaq and African Nova Scotian experiences with racism and environmental hazards in Nova Scotia By redefining the parameters of critique around the environmental justice narrative and movement in Nova Scotia and Canada Waldron opens a space for a more critical dialogue on how environmental racism manifests itself within this intersectional context Waldron also illustrates the ways in which the effects of environmental racism are compounded by other forms of oppression to further dehumanize and harm communities already dealing with pre existing vulnerabilities such as long standing social and economic inequality Finally Waldron documents the long history of struggle resistance and mobilizing in Indigenous and Black communities to address environmental racism Women Studies Abstracts ,2000
