Directions in Applied Linguistics Paul Bruthiaux, 2005 The essays and research papers in this collection explore current issues in Language Education English for Academic Purposes Contrastive Discourse Analysis and Language Policy and Planning and outline promising directions for theory and practice in applied linguistics The collection also honours the life long contribution of Robert B Kaplan to the field

Future Research Directions for Applied Linguistics Simone E. Pfenninger, Judit Navracscics, 2017-01-19 This edited volume provides an overview of current thinking and directions for further research in applied linguistics by bringing together in a single volume a range of perspectives regarding original research agendas and innovative methodological approaches It focuses not only on the challenges that applied linguistics researchers have been facing in recent years but also on producing workable and productive research designs and on identifying ways of how alternatives to conventional research methodologies can be used Discussions featured in the volume include the so called Bilingual Advantage in psycho and neurolinguistics the optimal starting age debate in foreign language learning the growing interest among applied linguists in more nuanced and more complex statistical data analysis and the priority given to more descriptive and social approaches to linguistics rather than to theorising The collection will be a useful reference and stimulus for students researchers and professionals working in the areas of applied linguistics psycholinguistics second language acquisition and second language education

Future Directions in Applied Linguistics Christina Gitsaki, 2011-12-08 The field of applied linguistics covers a diverse range of research and practice and has developed somewhat differently in various parts of the world due to variations in local socio cultural conditions needs and issues However this local diversity does not reflect a field that is incoherent but rather one which has a broad shared international agenda which is invigorated by the diversity brought to the field by local perspectives The papers in this volume represent some of the major global directions that research in applied linguistics is taking and shed light on how language is used to affect practice The aim of this volume is to explore some of the key methods and issues which are guiding applied linguistics into the future through an examination of these issues in local contexts thereby providing a basis for understanding the global directions the field is taking These directions follow two historically defined paths those related to educational studies and language teaching and those related to social issues involving language In the volume half the papers focus on the former examining issues of language teaching language teacher education and second language acquisition while the other half examine social issues related to language use bilingualism and multilingualism and language policy and planning The collection of papers presented in this book illustrates how these traditional themes are influenced by the rising forces of globalisation and the use of technology thus exemplifying both the new and old ways in which the study of language is realised

Second Language Acquisition Collection (Vols. 61-80) David Singleton,Simone E. Pfenninger,2014-09-30 This series brings together titles dealing with a variety of aspects of language acquisition and processing in situations where a language or languages other than the native language is involved Second language is therefore interpreted in its broadest possible sense The volumes included in the series all in their different ways offer on the one hand exposition and discussion of empirical findings and on the other some degree of theoretical reflection In this latter connection no particular theoretical stance is privileged in the series nor is any relevant perspective sociolinguistic psycholinguistic neurolinguistic etc deemed out of place The set contains volumes 61 to 80 in the series This collection is available by special order only Please email info multilingual matters com for order queries

How We're Going about it Melinda Dooly,Diana Eastment,2008 oeHow we re going about it provides a space for teachers TM voices in the nexus between research and practice by outlining specific cases of innovative approaches to language teaching and learning as they have been applied in the classroom The volume includes descriptions of some of the most representative recent work and practice in the field while at the same time covering a wide geographic scope The case descriptions help synthesize research and teaching practice in a way that is accessible to busy teachers teacher trainers or anyone interested in language development Each chapter focuses on a similar approach taken by teachers and researchers from different countries and while the book contains contributions from some well known authors it also includes contributions from lesser known practitioners who merit recognition of their innovative practices This book is an important contribution to language teaching and learning for several reasons It deals with educational innovation at various levels of education young learners primary secondary tertiary it deals with perspectives from different areas of Europe and beyond and it provides examples of grass roots experiences being carried out by real teachers in real classrooms and is honest about the problems faced when implementing educational changes It is therefore a book about authentic experiences with both a theoretical and problem solving base experiences which in turn make an important contribution to the underlying theories described herein Handbook of Multilingualism and Multilingual Communication Peter Auer, Li Wei, 2008-09-25 This volume is an up to date concise introduction to bilingualism and multilingualism in schools in the workplace and in international institutions in a globalized world The authors use a problem solving approach and ask broad questions about bilingualism and multilingualism in society including the question of language acquisition versus maintenance of bilingualism Key features provides a state of the art description of different areas in the context of multilingualism and multilingual communication presents a critical appraisal of the relevance of the field offers solutions of everyday language related problems international handbook with contributions from renown experts in the field Research Methods in Applied Linguistics Zoltan Dörnyei, 2007-07-19 This is a comprehensive overview of research methodology in applied linguistics which describes the various stages of qualitative and quantitative investigations from collecting the data to reporting the results Research in Language Learning Alice Omaggio Hadley, 1993

Sociocultural Theory and the Teaching of Second Languages James P. Lantolf, Matthew E. Poehner, 2008-07 The fourteen original chapters included in the present volume document innovations in second and foreign language teaching that are rooted in Vygotsky's theory of cognitive development Researchers and language teaching practitioners will find implementations at the classroom and programmatic levels of Vygotskian principles and concepts Linguistic Anthropology of Education Stanton E.F. Wortham, Betsy Rymes, 2003 Over the years linguistic anthropological research has shown how classrooms are socializing institutions and how language functions as one medium through which this socialization is accomplished Early work in the field has captured the immediacy of social practice and language use in educational contexts and has created useful characterizations of variations in communicative competence The present work builds on the strengths of prior work showing how new theoretical concepts and empirical methods developed in linguistic anthropology over the last decade can further illuminate educational settings The authors introduce an updated Linguistic Anthropology of Education which recognizes that in the rapidly changing field of cultural production within which children and teachers operate today the exploration of multiple pre-existing forms of communicative competence is not enough This volume elaborates theory and illustrates the tools and practices of the Linguistic Anthropology of Education to account for today's research context in which the multiplicity of identity and the multiple ways language can be used to represent it have important ramifications for how learning and social reproduction emerge within educational contexts Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1996 Sheltered Content Instruction Jana Echevarria, Anne Wooding Graves, 2007 This book clearly defines sheltered instruction or Specially Designed Academic Instruction in English SDAIE and provides strategies for its successful implementation in the K-12 classroom Unlike any other book on the market this popular resource focuses on using sheltered instruction with students of varying abilities making it a unique tool for teachers Renowned authors Jana Echevarria and Anne Graves address the important overlap between sheltered instruction and special education adaptations

The Third Edition of Sheltered Content Instruction captures the vitality of modern classrooms by speaking specifically to instruction in the content areas and confronting the fact that students learning English might struggle in those subjects. The authors provide practical methods that demonstrate how to implement this type of instruction with a full range of learners. A classic text in the field, the Third Edition of Sheltered Content Instruction is comprehensively revised and updated in a new, full-workbook-size format. One important function of the Third Edition is to provide teachers with the support and direction needed to undertake the sheltered approach. Specific examples of sheltered content instruction and scenarios depicting classroom interaction during this type of instruction provide models for teachers and those preparing to teach. Case studies and vignettes illustrate this interaction for the reader.
