Farming Cuba Urban Agriculture From The Ground Up Carey Clouse:

Farming Cuba Carey Clouse, 2014-05-27 Following the collapse of the Soviet Union in the early 1990s Cuba found itself solely responsible for feeding a nation that had grown dependent on imports and trade subsidies With fuel fertilizers and pesticides disappearing overnight citizens began growing their own organic produce anywhere they could find space on rooftops balconies vacant lots and even school playgrounds By 1998 there were more than 8 000 urban farms in Havana producing nearly half of the country's vegetables What began as a grassroots initiative had in less than a decade grown into the largest sustainable agriculture initiative ever undertaken making Cuba the world leader in urban farming Featuring a wealth of rarely seen material and intimate portraits of the environment Farming Cuba details the innovative design strategies and explores the social political and environmental factors that helped shape this pioneering urban farming program

Farming Cuba Carey Clouse, 2014 The Ultimate Guide to Urban Farming Nicole Faires, 2016-11-15 How to maximize your food production in an urban environment The idea of bringing agriculture into the city has been promoted by many on both sides of the political fence proponents of sustainability and prevention of climate change as well as those who worry about government and social instability To address the urgent need for a shift in the way our food is produced The Ultimate Guide to Urban Farming offers a practical education in everything there is to know about city agriculture how to grow a lot of food in any kind of urban living situation from apartment to full scale commercial venture Subjects covered include Small scale vs large scale agriculture The economic social health and environmental impacts of urban farming Making the most of the space available The latest technologies and developments in agriculture including hydroponics vertical gardening and aquaponics Case studies and design concerns for community based farming The best plant species for cities and seasons Beekeeping and small animals Commercial agriculture and the business side of farming in a city environment This comprehensive guide will introduce readers to the rewarding possibilities of growing their own food as well as dispel the falsehood that says we need faraway factory farms to produce everything we eat

Havana Susan Fitzgerald, 2022-05-01 Following the crisis of the Special Period Cuba promoted urban agriculture throughout its towns and cities to address food sovereignty and security Through the adoption of state recommended design strategies these gardens have become places of social and economic exchange throughout Cuba This book maps the lived experiences surrounding three urban farms in Havana to construct a deeper understanding about the everyday life of this city Using narratives and drawings this research uncovers these sites as places where education intimacy entrepreneurship wellbeing and culture are interwoven alongside food production Henri Lefebvre's latent work on rhythm analysis is used as a research method to capture the everyday beats particular to Havana surrounding these sites This book maps the many ways in which these spaces shift power away from the state to become places that are co created by the community to serve as a crucial hinge point between the ongoing collapse of the city and its future wellbeing

Informality and the City Gregory Marinic, Pablo

Meninato,2022-10-03 This book advances the agenda of informality as a transnational phenomenon recognizing that contemporary urban and regional challenges need to be addressed at both local and global levels This project may be considered a call for action Its urgency derives from the impact of the pandemic combined with the effects of climate change in informal settlements around the world While the notion of the informal is usually associated with the analysis and interventions in informal settlements this book expands the concept of informality to acknowledge its interdisciplinary parameters The book is geographically organized into five sections The first part provides a conceptual overview of the notion of the informal serving as an introduction and reflection on the subject The following sections are dedicated to the principal regions of the Global South Latin America US Mexico Borderlands Asia and Africa while considering the interconnections and correspondences between urbanism in the Global South and the Global North This book offers a critical introduction to groundbreaking theories and design practices of informality in the built environment It provides essential reading for scholars professionals and students in urban studies architecture city planning urban geography sociology anthropology cultural studies economics and the arts As a critical survey of informality the book examines history theory and production across a range of informal practices and phenomena in urbanism architecture activism and participatory design Authored by a diverse and international cohort of leading educators theorists and practitioners 45 chapters refine and expand the discourse surrounding informal cities

Empire's Tracks Manu Karuka,2019-01-29 Empire s Tracks boldly reframes the history of the transcontinental railroad from the perspectives of the Cheyenne Lakota and Pawnee Native American tribes and the Chinese migrants who toiled on its path In this meticulously researched book Manu Karuka situates the railroad within the violent global histories of colonialism and capitalism Through an examination of legislative military and business records Karuka deftly explains the imperial foundations of U S political economy Tracing the shared paths of Indigenous and Asian American histories this multisited interdisciplinary study connects military occupation to exclusionary border policies a linked chain spanning the heart of U S imperialism This highly original and beautifully wrought book unveils how the transcontinental railroad laid the tracks of the U S Empire

Climate-Adaptive Design in High Mountain Villages Carey Clouse,2020-10-15 Drawing from the unique context and climate of the Himalaya this book highlights several innovative design interventions shaped by a myriad of social cultural environmental and political factors that have been employed in villages to combat climate change Climate Adaptive Design in High Mountain Villages focuses on Ladakh an outpost on the front lines of climate change and the region s creative responses to the pressing issues of food security water management energy efficiency design aid and material resources in the Anthropocene These strategies from artificial glaciers to tree armor showcase the breadth of creative solutions already underway In doing so the research addresses the broader concept of climate adaptive design and how it informs the disciplines of architecture landscape architecture and urban planning An ideal read for academics researchers and students in these fields this book presents a focused investigation into climate adaptive strategies that could provide transferable solutions for the rest of the world

Sustainable Urban Agriculture in Cuba Sinan Koont, 2016-12-07 Pushed by necessity but enabled by its existing social and educational policies Cuba in the 1990s launched the most extensive program of urban sustainable agriculture in the world This study is to date the only book length investigation in either English or Spanish of this important national experiment in transforming the environmental economic and social nature of today s dominant system of producing food Al Campbell University of Utah As large scale industrial agriculture comes under increasing scrutiny because of its petroleum and petrochemical based input costs and environmentally objectionable consequences increasing attention has been focused on sustainable local and agro ecological techniques in food production Cuba was forced by historical circumstances to be one of the pioneers in the massive application of these techniques After the demise of the Soviet Union in the early 1990s Cuba was left without access to external support needed to carry on with industrial agriculture The economic crisis led the country to reconsider their former models of resource management Cuba retooled its agricultural programs to focus on urban agriculture sustainable ecologically sound farming close to densely populated areas Food now takes far less time to get to the people who are now better nourished because they have easier access to whole foods Moreover urban farming has become a source of national pride Cuba has one of the best urban agriculture programs in the world with a thousand fold increase in urban agricultural output since 1994 Sinan Koont has spent the last several years researching urban agriculture in Cuba including field work at many sustainable farms on the island He tells the story of why and how Cuba was able to turn to urban food production on a large scale with minimal use of chemicals petroleum and machinery and of the successes it achieved along with the continuing difficulties it still faces in reducing its need for food imports Sinan Koont is associate professor of economics at Dickinson College A volume in the series Contemporary Cuba edited by John M Kirk

Agriculture in the City María Caridad Cruz, Roberto Sánchez Medina, 2003 During the 1990s several national economies saw their urban food markets collapse Like Zambia Mozambique and Armenia Cuba responded to this crisis with a food program that included support to urban agriculture farming in the city As a result food prices are increasing free markets have been reinstated production cooperatives have been linked with markets land has been redistributed and areas under export crops have been converted to domestic food crops The Cuban government is now calling upon its cities to become more self reliant for food OCo a focus that is dramatically modifying the landscape lifestyle and food supply of Havana residents Sowing Change Adriana Premat, 2012 Making it in Havana one harvest at a time

Agriculture in the City María Caridad Cruz Hernández, Roberto Sánchez Medina, Ian Randle, 2003 Sustainable Agriculture and Resistance Fernando Funes, 2002 This is a story of resistance against all odds of Cuba s remarkable recovery from a food crisis brought on by the collapse of trade relations with the former socialist bloc and the tightening of the U S embargo Unable to import either food or the farm chemicals and machines needed to grow it via conventional agriculture Cuba turned inward toward self reliance Sustainable agriculture organic farming urban gardens smaller farms animal traction and biological pest control are part of the successful paradigm shift underway in the Cuban countryside In this book Cuban authors offer details for the first time in English of these remarkable achievements which may serve as guideposts toward healthier more environmentally friendly and self reliant farming in countries both North and South Publisher s description

Sustainable Agriculture and Food Security in an Era of Oil Scarcity Julia Wright,2012-05-16 When other nations are forced to rethink their agricultural and food security strategies in light of the post peak oil debate they only have one living example to draw from that of Cuba in the 1990s Based on the first and up till now only systematic and empirical study to come out of Cuba on this topic this book examines how the nation successfully headed off its own food crisis after the dissolution of the Soviet Bloc in the early 1990s The author identifies the policies and practices required for such an achievement under conditions of petroleum scarcity and in doing so challenges the mainstream globalized and privatized food systems and food security strategies being driven through in both industrialized and more vulnerable developing regions Paradoxically the book dispels the myth that Cuba turned to organic farming nationwide a myth founded on the success of Cuba s urban organic production systems which visitors to the country are most commonly exposed to In rural regions where the author had unique access industrialized high input and integrated agriculture is aspired to for the majority of domestic production despite the ongoing fluctuations in availability of agrochemicals and fuel By identifying the challenges faced by Cuban institutions and individuals in de industrializing their food and farming systems this book provides crucial learning material for the current fledgling attempts at developing energy descent plans and at mainstreaming more organic food systems in industrialized nations It also informs international policy on sustainable agriculture and food security for less industrialized countries Green Spaces in an Urban Wilderness Joshua John Klaus,2004 Cuban Agriculture Blaise B.
