From Camp To City Refugee Camps Of The Western Sahara:

From Camp to City Manuel Herz, 2013 What happens when temporary architectural structures become permanent From Camp to City provides an in depth analysis on the topic Examining the theme of the refugee camp in the context of urbanism and architecture the book offers extensive documentation of an urban borderline case in the form of the Sahrawi refugee camps in the Algerian desert temporary spaces of transit that have become more and more permanent in recent decades In contrast to the predominant understanding of the refugee camps as being either humanitarian or dystopian From Camp to City investigates how people live and dwell in these informal extraterritorial spaces work move around and enjoy themselves It documents how the camp instead of being a place of misery can also be understood as a potential political project Numerous images and texts on all aspects of life illustrate the emergence of urban structures and the way architecture becomes involved in the underlying political conflict Back cover

Design Dispersed Burcu Dogramaci, Kerstin Pinther, 2019-06-13 Design Dispersed pursues the complex and heterogeneous connections between migration and design in the 20th and 21st centuries The edited volume gathers contributions by international researchers and curators on the question of how design practices and historical objects articulate respond to and critically reflect on migration flight and displacement Besides a collage which highlights the aesthetic effects resulting from the networking overlapping and mixing of forms another strand of the book looks at the political and social dimensions of design How are design objects material modes of a critical inquiry on movements of people and things What role do object trajectories play in the migr movements of the 1930s and 1940s Other texts follow the question of how migrants and refugees form their experience and political fight for acceptance into design and architectural productions A final essay contributes to wordings and projections what vocabulary do we need in order to adequately think and write about a design dispersed

Planning and Designing the Absent City

Luca Trabatttoni,2024-06-27 This book concerns the study of open air accommodation facilities The market evolutions allow us to look at these structures as temporary settlements characterised by a low density dwelling and a close connection with natural elements and the landscape This new and different point of view is sustained by the tendency of outdoor tourism to go in the direction of temporary villages and this tendency is directly related to time and landscape The landscape is the reason why the campsite is settled The time is linked to the holiday season timing Today both are greatly influenced by the introduction of the Maxi Caravan This removable living unit can be placed on the empty pitch occupying the landscape without ruining the soil By the settlement of Maxi Caravans the campsite is transformed from an empty landscape with tents to a temporary settlement whose timing is divided between the seasonal timing of the campsite and the timing of the product and whose landscape is organised by the relation with the prevalent landscape and the internal one The book s core defines the outdoor facility structure using Italy as the main case study To identify design strategies the book analyses temporary settlement examples quick time and projects from historic outdoor tourism medium time Finally the last chapter reflects on open air accommodation facilities by showing their applicability in the different contexts of the refugee camps long time The aim of this research is to enhance the theme of open air accommodation facilities highlighting the need to equalise the study of temporary settlements with that of permanent settlements It will be of interest to researchers and students of planning landscape and tourism Western Sahara Fact-finding Mission Report, July 8-16, 1993 ,1993 War and Refugees Richard I. International Territorial Administration Ralph Wilde,2008 The book is the first comprehensive treatment of the reasons why international organizations have engaged in territorial administration from the League of Nations in Danzig during the inter war period to the UN in East Timor recently and Kosovo today Moving beyond the fashionable and misleading use of terms like post conflict reconstruction and state building to describe the role of international territorial administration this book engages in a complex analysis of the various purposes with which this activity has been associated some of which for example settling disputes over sovereignty have nothing to do with perceived local incapacities for governance The book goes beyond territorial administration by the UN covering the conduct of this activity by international organizations generally thereby analyzing lesser known projects like the EU Administration in Mostar 1994 6 It addresses instances of partial as well as plenary administration such as the role of the Office of the High Representative in imposing legislation in Bosnia and Herzegovina since 1996 By revealing the complex and diverse range of objectives which international organizations have attempted to realize through territorial administration and establishing the commonalities and differences between the administration projects in this respect the book establishes the contours of an international policy institution to rank alongside peacekeeping and humanitarian intervention By doing so it provides a framework through which some of the key questions relating to such projects concerning legitimacy authority and applicable law can be addressed It also reveals a secret history of international organizations throughout the 20th Century complementing work on their role in managing relations between states by exposing their role within particular states and non state territories beyond the well documented activity of peacekeeping by military forces
