2022 fib Awards for Outstanding Concrete Structures FIB - International Federation for Structural Concrete, 2022-06-15

The fib has two major missions now One is to work toward the publication of the Model Code 2020 and the other is to respond to the global movement toward carbon neutrality While the former is steadily progressing toward completion the latter will require significant efforts for generations to come As we all know cement the primary material for concrete is a sector that accounts for 8.5% of the world's CO₂ emissions And the structural concrete that fib handles consumes 60% of that In other words we need to know the reality that our structural concrete is emitting 5% of the world's CO₂ From now on fib members suppliers designers builders owners engineers and academic researchers will be asked how to solve this difficult problem In general most of the CO₂ emissions in the life cycle of structural concrete come from the production stage of materials and the use stage after construction i.e. A1 to A3 and B1 to B5 processes as defined in EN15978 Cement and steel sectors which are the main materials for structural concrete are expected to take various measures to achieve zero carbon in their respective sectors by 2050 Until then we must deal with the transition with our low carbon technologies Regarding the production stage the fib has recently launched TG4.8 Low carbon concrete And the latest low carbon technologies will be discussed there On the other hand in the use stage there is very little data on the relationship between durability and intervention and maintenance so far The data accumulation here is the work of the fib a group of various experts on structural concrete Through life management using highly durable structures and precise monitoring will enable to realize minimum maintenance in the use stage and to minimize CO₂ emissions Furthermore it is also possible to contribute to the reduction of CO₂ emissions in the further stage after the first cycle by responding to the circular economy that is deconstruction C reuse and recycle D However the technology in this field is still in its infancy and further research and development is expected in the future As described above structural concrete can be carbon neutral in all aspects of its conception and it can make a significant contribution when it is realized The fib will have to address these issues in the future Of course it will not be easy and it will take time However if we do not continue our efforts as the only international academic society on structural concrete in the world to achieve carbon neutrality the significance of our very existence may be questioned Long before Portland cement was invented Roman concrete made of volcanic ash and other materials was the ultimate low carbon material and is still in use 2 000 years later because of its non reinforced structure and lack of deterioration factors Reinforced concrete which made it possible to apply concrete to structures other than arches and domes is only 150 years old Prestressed concrete is even younger with only 80 years of history Now that we think about it we realize that Roman concrete which is non reinforced low carbon concrete is one of the examples of problem solving that we are trying to achieve We have new materials such as coated reinforcement FRP and fiber reinforced concrete which can be used in any structural form To overcome this challenge with all our wisdom would be to live up to the feat the Romans accomplished 2 000 years ago Realizing highly durable and elegant structures with low carbon concrete is the key to meet the demands of the world in the future I hope you will enjoy reading this AOS brochure showing the Outstanding Concrete Structures Awards at the fib 2022 Congress in Oslo And I also hope you will find some clues for the challenges we are facing

Public Access to Online Catalogs Joseph R. Matthews,1985

Chinese Librarianship in the Digital Era Conghui Fang,2013-06-30 The library in China has been transformed by rapid socioeconomic development and the proliferation of the Internet The issues faced by Chinese libraries and librarians are those faced by library practitioners more globally however China also has its own unique set of issues in the digital era including developmental imbalance between East and West urban and rural areas and availability of skilled practitioners Chinese Librarianship in the Digital Era is the first book on Chinese libraries responding to these issues and more The first part of the book places discussion in historical context before moving on to the digital environment of the Chinese library The book then considers the issue of digital copyright in China and debates the core values of the Chinese library The next three chapters cover public and academic libraries and library consortia Finally the book gives a view of the future prospects for libraries in China Unique in focusing on digital libraries in China Provides a comprehensive overview of libraries in contemporary China Presents valuable information formerly available only in Chinese

Second Thoughts Armand de Mestral,2017-01-30 Criticism Doubts Second thoughts Although investor state arbitration ISA has been included in investment agreements between developed and developing countries since the 1960s and provided foreign investors with a kind of private justice against developing world host states it became increasingly controversial in developed countries when it was included in NAFTA in 1993 creating the possibility of ISA claims between and against two developed countries the United States or Canada as well as claims against and by a developing state Mexico A few years later the OECD s attempt to finalize the Multilateral Agreement on Investment was stymied by concerted civil society protest and opposition to ISA and in recent years each new proposed agreement has sparked fresh rounds of protest What engenders the controversy about ISA While ISA s advantage is that it prevents escalation of international conflict by relieving states from feeling obliged to espouse claims of injured investors against foreign governments it is criticized for creating regulatory chill whereby states are reluctant to make necessary public policy reforms for fear that changes to the investment environment will lead to expensive investor claims Are fears of litigation and expensive payouts well founded Can key modifications to the ISA system such as those added to the Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement satisfy critics and redeem this system of private justice Is ISA really necessary between developed democracies where an independent and professional judiciary can generally be trusted to decide without fear or favour In Second Thoughts Investor State Arbitration between Developed Democracies 16 international investment legal experts have undertaken in depth analyses of ISA s economic political and social impacts when included in agreements between developed democracies This timely volume appears at a critical moment seeking answers to the crucial questions that will determine the next generation of international investment agreements
