Clay, 2005 Foreign direct investment is recognized to be important for economic development in terms of wealth creation employment skills development and technology transfer But there is an ongoing debate about the extent to which these contributions translate into real benefits for people living in poverty In an attempt to evaluate the impacts of international business on people living in poverty two organizations with very different aims and perspectives Unilever a major company operating in some of the poorest countries in the world and Oxfam an international development and humanitarian organization collaborated on an ambitious research project. The research considered the impacts of Unilever Indonesia across the entire business value chain from producers and suppliers through the company's core business operations to its distributors, retailers, and consumers. This report presents the findings of the research. It is a contribution to the debates among the wider business community, governments, civil society organizations, and academics who seek to understand how the wealth, employment, and products that a large company creates could bring increased benefits to people living in poverty. International Labour Documentation International Labour Office, Bureau of Library and Information Services, 2000 Global Legal Insights - Employment & Labour Law, 2015 AALL Directory and Handbook American Association of Law Libraries, 2002 International Labour Review, 1927 Africa Insight, 2004 International Labor Conference, 2003 Directory of Online Data Bases, 1988 Comparative Labor Law Journal, 1988 Which Degree in Britain, 1998 A comprehensive guide to full-time degree courses, institutions, and towns in Britain International Books in Print, 1997 Fulltext Sources Online, 2008 Industrial and Labor Relations Review, 2014-07 Canadian Books in Print, 1991
