Schools and Schooling in the Digital Age Neil Selwyn, 2010-10-07 This book tackles the wider picture addressing the social cultural economic political and commercial aspects of schools and schooling in the digital age offering to make sense of what happens and what does not happen when the digital and the educational come together in the guise of schools technology

Religion in the Primary School Peter Hemming, 2015-02-20 Religion and its relationship to schooling is an issue that has become more and more topical in recent years In many countries developments such as the diversification of state school sectors concerns about social cohesion between ethnic and religious groups and debates about national identity and values have raised old and new questions about the role of religion in education Whilst the significance of this issue has been reflected in renewed interest from the academic community much of this work has continued to be based around theoretical or pedagogical debates and stances rather than evidence based empirical research This book aims to address this gap by exploring the social and political role of religion in the context of the primary school Drawing on original ethnographic research with a child centred orientation comparisons are drawn between Community and Roman Catholic primary schools situated within a multi faith urban area in the UK In doing so the study explores a number of ways in which religion has the potential to contribute to everyday school life including through school ethos and values inter pupil relations community cohesion and social identity and difference At the centre of the analysis are two key sociological debates about the significance of religion in late modern societies The first is concerned with the place of religion in public life and the influence of secularisation and post secularism on the relationship between religion and schooling The second relates to the increasingly multi faith nature of many national populations and the implications for religious citizenship in educational settings Religion in the Primary School will be a useful resource for academics researchers and students as a key

addition to existing knowledge in the disciplines of education sociology and human geography It will also be of value to both policy makers and educationalists interested in the role of religion in schools and the implications for the wider community and society in a range of national contexts Teacher Education and the Political Matthew Clarke, Anne Phelan, 2017-01-12

Teacher Education and the Political is a striking book which addresses the nature and purpose of teacher education in a global context characterised by economic and political anxieties around declining productivity and social inclusion These anxieties are manifested in recent policy developments such as the promotion of professional standards the deregulation and marketisation of teacher education and the imposition of performance related regimes that tie teachers pay to outcomes in high stakes testing The book assesses the implications of such policies for the work of teachers as well as for teacher educators and those undertaking initial teacher training It is argued that these policy moves can be read as a depoliticising and de intellectualising of teacher education In this context they illustrate how contemporary theory can provide a language for critiquing recent developments and imagining new trajectories for policy and practice in teacher education Drawing on the work of theorists from Derrida and Mouffe to Agamben and Lacan this book argues for the need to maintain a space for intellectual autonomy as a critical dimension of the ethico political work of teachers Together these ideas and analyses provide examples of the power of negative thinking illustrating its capacity to unsettle comfortable truths and foreground the political nature of teacher education Current teachers teacher educators and school leaders will be particularly interested readers alongside those concerned with policy in the wider educational landscape The Struggle for the History of Education Gary McCulloch, 2011-02-25

In The Struggle for History Education Gary McCulloch sets out a vision for a future of study in the history of education which contributes to education history and social sciences alike Decolonizing Education for Sustainable Futures Yvette Hutchinson, Artemio Arturo Cortez Ochoa, Julia Paulson, Leon Tikly, 2024-12-10

Bringing together the perspectives of researchers policy makers activists educators and practitioners this book critically interrogates the Western centric assumptions underpinning education and development agendas and the colonial legacies of violence they often uphold The book considers the crucial connection between the idea of sustainable futures and the demand to decolonize education Containing an innovative mixture of text stories and poetry it explores how decolonized futures can be conceived and enacted offering theoretical and practical examples including from practice in educational and cultural organizations In doing so the book highlights education s potential role in facilitating processes of reparative justice that can contribute to decolonized futures School Trouble Deborah Youdell, 2010-11

This book sets out a series of possible approaches to pursuing social justice in and through educational settings It identifies a series of key features of the contemporary political theoretical and popular landscape in relation to school practice International Encyclopedia of Education , 2009-04-17
