The Shaping Shaikh Dejan Aždajić, 2020-01-20 Islam is more than a system of rigid doctrines and normative principles. It is a diverse mosaic of subjective often contradictory interpretations and discrepant applications that prohibit a narrow one-dimensional approach. This book argues that to uncover this complex reality and achieve a more accurate understanding of Islam as a lived religion, it is imperative to consider Islam from the point of view of human beings who practice their faith. Consequently, this book provides an important contribution through a detailed ethnographic study of two contemporary Sufi communities. Although both groups shared much in common, there was a fundamental, almost perplexing range of theological convictions and ritual implementations. This book explores the mechanism that accounts for such diversity, arguing for a direct correlation between Sufi multiformity and the agency of the spiritual leader, the Shaikh. Empirical research regarding the authority by which Shaikhs subjectively generate legitimate adaptations that shape the contours of religious belief are lacking. This study is significant because it focuses on how leadership operates in Sufism, highlighting the primacy of the Shaikh in the selection and appropriation of inherited norms.

Assessing the Social Values of Heritage Elizabeth Robson, 2025-03-27 Assessing the Social Values of Heritage considers how social values can be better understood and incorporated into the day-to-day work of managing and conserving the historic environment. Drawing together major strands of thinking from critical heritage studies, ethnography, and social research, and science and technology studies, the book explores the theoretical and practical tensions that shifting discourses on value and contemporary significance have created for heritage practitioners. Presenting seven case studies of social value assessments, it discusses how qualitative methods and participatory approaches can be applied in a variety of real-world contexts, revealing the complex interactions that characterise these dynamic knowledge production processes. The book provides unique insights into methods as more than technical processes that determine not only how but which knowledge is reproduced, shaping understandings of social values. It concludes that bringing social values into heritage practice requires not only new methods and approaches but new ways of working with emergent understandings and multiple types of expertise In response to the challenges and the opportunities identified the concept of a methods assemblage is employed offering an effective model for more reflexive and inclusive future practice in this area Assessing the Social Values of Heritage provides the first systematic comparative review of methods for social values assessment It will be essential reading for practitioners academics and scholars engaged in the study of heritage participatory research and people centred methods

Ethnography

Martyn Hammersley, Paul Atkinson, 2019-04-11 Now in its fourth edition this leading introduction to ethnography has been thoroughly updated and substantially rewritten. The volume offers a systematic introduction to ethnographic principles and practice and includes a new chapter on Ethnography in the digital world. The authors argue that ethnography is best understood as a reflexive process. This requires recognition that social research is part of the world that it studies and demands that researchers reflect on how they shape both data and analysis. Starting in Chapter 1 with an outline of the principle of reflexivity against the background of competing research philosophies, the authors go on to discuss the main features of ethnographic work including the selection and sampling of cases, the problem of access, field relations and observation, interviewing, the use of documents, recording and organizing data, the process of data analysis and writing research reports. There is also consideration of the ethical issues involved in ethnographic research. Throughout the discussion draws on a wide range of illustrative material from classic and more recent studies within a global context. The new edition of this popular textbook will be an indispensable resource for undergraduate and postgraduate students and for all researchers using ethnographic methods in the social sciences and the humanities.
