Justice as Message Carsten Stahn, 2020-05-27 International criminal justice relies on messages speech acts and performative practices in order to convey social meaning Major criminal proceedings such as Nuremberg Tokyo and other post World War II trials have been branded as spectacles of didactic legality However the expressive and communicative functions of law are often side lined in institutional discourse and legal practice This innovative work brings these functions centre stage developing the idea of justice as message and outlining the expressivist foundations of international criminal justice in a systematic way Professor Carsten Stahn examines the origins of the expressivist theory in the sociology of law and the justification of punishment its articulation in practice and its broader role as method of international law He shows that expression and communication is not only an inherent part of the punitive functions of international criminal justice but is represented in a whole spectrum of practices norm expression and diffusion institutional actions performative aspects of criminal procedures and repair of harm He argues that expressivism is not a classical justification of justice or punishment on its own but rather a means to understand its aspirations and limitations to explain how justice is produced and to ground punishment rationales This book is an invitation to think beyond the confines of the legal discipline and to engage with the multidisciplinary foundations and possibilities of the international criminal justice project

Kaleidoscope Notes Stacy Jones,1998-04-02 Striving to express the lived experience of women s music at The Club Stacy Holman Jones has created a text that is itself performative and the reader cannot resist playing a starring role Her evocative narrative slips in and out of prose dialogue and poetry Fieldnotes and song lyrics are staged as inseparable parts of the events of social meaning occurring between ethnographer and field site between reader and text Jones is haunted by the specters of reliability and validity motivated by the goals of multivocality and multiple truths and driven by the music She is also driven by the mystery and complexity of women s music a category which is impossible to capture tame or pin down Created and recreated from many points of view in each performance and evocation it resists a stable definition This innovative ethnography is an important move toward turning the postmodern critique into a lyrical and complex expression of social experience
