

mentally competitive, with an intensity that went more to lay than to an urge for dominance. These values flowed into us on the example of Joseph and Rose Kennedy. They helped us form bonds among one another, and to develop personalities based on those bonds, to an extent that remains to this day much appreciated by the character of my family. They remain our will. They lie at the heart of the story I wish to tell.

I was nine years old in that summer of 1961, the final summer of the familiar world into which I was born. I was not clear why we had all come back home from England, but I was happy that we had. I was too young to fully understand that my father had resigned his ambassadorship. I was certainly too young to comprehend that he'd resigned because he had offended some people in England by saying that the British might not be capable of fighting a war against Germany. It would have been worse to me that Dad had displeased President Kennedy with those same remarks. Or that when he was away from the Cape house that summer, in New York and Washington, he was trying to persuade other people to join his effort at keeping America out of the war. Or that, despite their differences, Joseph Kennedy continued to support Franklin Roosevelt as president.

I just knew that we resented him, and I would ride backhome, together on the Cape, and that was all I really cared to know.

It's hardly surprising that those facets of my father's life were unknowable to me as a child. If my father were alive
