Forgetting Fathers David Marshall, 2015-09-24 In Forgetting Fathers David Marshall weaves together the stories of his grandfather and great grandfather with his own quest to solve the mystery of his family's past. Beginning as a search for his lost family name, Marshall attempts to understand the origins of his grandfather who spent part of his childhood in the Hebrew Orphan Asylum of the City of New York. He also reconstructs the life and death of his great grandfather, a Russian immigrant tailor who died at age thirty-six in a private sanitarium dedicated to the treatment of mental and nervous diseases. The narrative becomes a detective story that reflects on our ambivalence about origins, the relation between history and mourning, and the compulsion to search for life stories. Forgetting Fathers combines historical accounts based on records, reports, and public documents with autobiographical reflections and speculations. Included throughout are photographs, newspaper clippings, and facsimiles of original documents that provide a sense of both the texture of the times and the fabric of archival and genealogical research.

Sylvia Plath Day by Day, Volume 1 Carl Rollyson, 2023-08-14 Since Sylvia Plath's death in 1963, she has become the subject of a constant stream of books, biographies, and articles. She has been hailed as a groundbreaking poet for her starkly beautiful poems in Ariel and as a brilliant forerunner of the feminist coming-of-age novel in her semiautobiographical The Bell Jar. Each new biography has offered insight and sources with which to measure Plath's life and influence. Sylvia Plath Day by Day, a two-volume series, offers a distillation of this data without the inherent bias of a narrative. Volume 1 commences with Plath's birth in Boston in 1932, records her response to her elementary and high school years, her entry into Smith College, and her breakdown and suicide attempt, and ends on February 14, 1955, the day she wrote to Ruth Cohen, principal of Newnham College, Cambridge, to accept admission as an affiliated student at Newnham College to read for the English Tripos. Sylvia Plath Day by Day is for readers of all kinds with a wide variety of interests in the woman and her work. The entries are suitable for dipping into and can be read in a minute or an hour. Ranging over several sources, including Plath's diaries, journals, letters, stories, and other prose and poetry, including new material and archived material rarely seen by readers, a fresh kaleidoscopic view of the writer emerges.

Los Angeles Magazine, 2005-06 Los Angeles Magazine is a regional magazine of national stature. Our combination of award-winning feature writing, investigative reporting, service journalism, and design covers the people, lifestyle, culture, entertainment, fashion, art, and architecture and news that define Southern California. Started in the spring of 1961, Los Angeles Magazine has been addressing the needs and interests of our region for 48 years. The magazine continues to be the definitive resource for an affluent population that is intensely interested in a lifestyle that is uniquely Southern Californian.

My Father's Quest Carmen Corrales Konneker, 2009 In the early 1900s in rural Mexico, a father and mother are taken from their children in a tragic accident. The four small children lose everything: their home, their friends, and all their belongings, and are placed in an orphanage by an uncaring, distant relative. The oldest child, Daniel, is only eight years old, but he is determined to protect his younger brother.

and two sisters as he promised by his father's grave. When the siblings are separated, Daniel begins a quest to reunite his family that spans years and borders, trying to bring them together once more. This is the story as told to his daughter Carmen, who wrote it with love. Back cover      The Father Who Forgot His Children Beverley Marley, 2001-11-01      My Parents' Orphans: The Rosie George Finocchi Story Rosie George Finocchi, 2019-05-14. We were the quintessential small town all American family with loving parents. I was the oldest of five children. We loved small town parades, picnics, my mom's deviled eggs and fireworks. Dad was an Eagle Boy Scout leader and Mom was a Brownie Troop leader. We were the joyful, happy traditional family on your Hallmark greeting cards, the kind of family Norman Rockwell used as models for his American Family paintings. And suddenly, one morning without even the smallest warning, just like in the movies when there's a horrible screeching ripping sound and everything freezes and the picture you see on the screen literally rips into two jagged pieces, our wonderful happy secure life just ended. Poof! Completely permanently and forever gone. I was 13 years old and fatherless. When I was 19, I added being motherless. My four younger siblings and I were orphans.      Father to the Fatherless Paul H. Borge, Bruce Wilkinson, 2005. Six year old Charles Mulli wakes up in his Kenyan hut to discover his parents have abandoned him. Forced to beg from hut to hut in search of food, Charles scrapes out a meagre existence while trying to come to terms with his abusive past. Then, in a dramatic turn of events, Charles experiences unprecedented success. He finds a wonderful wife, raises a family, excels in business to such a degree that he creates an empire that is noticed by the President of Kenya and he becomes a pinnacle in the church movement. Charles is on top of the world. And then his world changes. In spite of his tremendous achievements, the plight of the growing street children problem in his country remains strong in Charles' heart. He is unable to shut out their cries, the cries he understands so well, and he realizes he must respond. Father to the Fatherless tells the true story of a man who makes a decision to sell everything he has to help the poor. It's a decision that goes so counter intuitive to those around him that he is soon completely ostracized, forcing him to carry out what seems like an impossible and unexplainable mission. Now armed only with his relationship with God, Charles and his family struggle on physical, financial and spiritual fronts to rescue street children from the slums of Kenya and provide them with the hope of new life.
