Envisioning The Future Science Fiction And The Next Millennium:

Envisioning the Future Marleen S. Barr, 2003 Writers speculate on the future and the role of science fiction A Genealogy of Cyborgothic Dr Dongshin Yi, 2013-04-28 In his provocative and timely study of posthumanism Dongshin Yi adopts an imaginary imaginative approach to exploring the transformative power of the cyborg a strategy that introduces balance to the current discourses dominated by the practicalities of technoscience and the dictates of anthropocentrism Proposing the term cyborgothic to characterize a new genre that may emerge from gothic literature and science fiction Yi introduces mothering as an aesthetic and ethical practice that can enable a posthumanist relationship between human and non human beings Yi examines the cyborg s literary manifestations in novels including The Mysteries of Udolpho Frankenstein Dracula Arrowsmith and He She and It alongside philosophical and critical texts such as Edmund Burke s A Philosophical Enquiry into the Origins of Our ideas of the Sublime and Beautiful Immanuel Kant s Critique of Judgment John Stuart Mill s Utilitarianism and System of Logic William James s essays on pragmatism ethical treatises on otherness and things feminist writings on motherhood and recent studies of posthumanism Arguing humans imagine the cyborg in ways that are seriously limited by fear of the unknown and current understandings of science and technology Yi identifies in gothic literature a practice of the beautiful that extends the operation of sensibility heightened by gothic manifestations or situations to surrounding objects and people so that new feelings flow in and attenuate fear In science fiction which demonstrates how society has accommodated science Yi locates ethical corrections to the anthropocentric trajectory that such accommodation has taken Thus A Genealogy of Cyborgothic imagines a new literary genre that helps envision a cyborg friendly non anthropocentric posthuman society Encoded with gothic literature s aesthetic embrace of fear and science fiction s ethical criticism of anthropocentrism the cyborgothic retains the prospective nature of these genres and develops mothering as an aesthetico ethical practice that both humans and cyborgs should perform Speculative Satire in Contemporary Literature and Film Kirk Combe, 2020-12-27 Since 1980 when neoliberal and neoconservative forces began their hostile takeover of western culture a new type of political satire has emerged that works to unmask and deter those toxic doctrines Literary and cultural critic Kirk Combe calls this new form of satire the Rant The Rant is grim highly imaginative and complex in its blending of genres It mixes facets of satire science fiction and monster tale to produce widely consumed spectacles major studio movies popular television streaming series bestselling novels designed to disturb and to provoke The Rant targets what Combe calls the Regime Simply put the Regime is the sum of the dangerous social economic and political orthodoxies spurred on by neoliberal and neoconservative polity Such practices include free market capitalism corporatism militarism religiosity imperialism racism patriarchy and so on In the Rant then we have a unique and wholly contemporary genre of political expression and protest speculative satire Chapters 1 and 5 of this book are freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No
