Excerpt from A True Discourse of the Present State of Virginia These boys would certainly have gone to Merchant Taylors School where Edmund Spenser preceded them a generation earlier It seems that Ralph went on to Oxford for a short spell for a Ralph Hamor of London was admitted to Brasenose College in 1605 matriculated in 1606 at the age of seventeen and left without taking a degree But the Latinized prose of the True Discourse is that of an educated man and I feel sure that this Ralph Hamor is our man He refers to himself in the tract written in 1614 as young in years and knowledge and this would make him the not improbable age of twenty five at that time About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works      A Discourse on the Dangers

That Threaten the Free Institutions of the United States, Being an Address to the Literary Societies of Hampden Sidney College, Virginia (Classic Reprint) Beverley Tucker,2015-07-11 Excerpt from A Discourse on the Dangers That Threaten the Free Institutions of the United States Being an Address to the Literary Societies of Hampden Sidney College Virginia Gentlemen The name of your Association naturally suggested to me that in preparing to discharge the task to which you have been pleased to call me it would become me to select some topic connected with the Happiness of Mankind The field indeed is broad for what duty that man owes to his Maker to the human race to his country to society or to himself can I inculcate without exhorting to that which makes for his happiness But fortunately for you gentlemen on most of these subjects Tam forestalled On the most important among them on the claims of Religion and the duties of Morality you are daily instructed by those who address you in the name and by the authority of God himself And were not this so and were it not a profanation that I should take that holiest of names on unclean lips I should still be restrained by the reminiscences connected with this spot About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com

A Discourse R. M. T. Hunter, 2018-03-14. Excerpt from A Discourse Delivered Before the Virginia Historical Society at Their Eighth Annual Meeting December 14 1854. Doubtless the wild man of the woods could distinguish between sounds as pleasant or unpleasant as grave or gay, but what sense had he of the hidden harmonies which floated in the air around him? Did he dream that the very air which he breathed could be modulated into sounds which subdue the senses by their tones and stir the soul to its inmost depths, speaking in the only universal language known to man with an unerring concord and a certainty of expression which the original curse of Babel has never reached to confuse or destroy? So too he must have had some idea of the beautiful in the forms of things, but it was as transitory as the lights and shadows which flitted by him. To fix the idea ere it fled and reproduce it in forms more eloquent than words, to make sentient the cold impassive stone and to embalm emotions and sentiments in lights borrowed from heaven, would have been indeed to him an art and a faculty divine, so far did it transcend his power of execution. Nor is the superiority of the last over the former generation of the men of whom I have been speaking less striking in a moral than in a physical point of view. Conceptions over which a Newton or a Leibnitz or Bernoulli or Euler toiled in his study are now the daily exercises of boys at college, and the higher and subtler analysis of La Grange or Laplace is probably destined to be mastered with equal facility hereafter. Ideas whose origination cost so much to a Plato or an Aristotle, a Bacon, a Descartes or a Kant are now the common property of the world, and thousands understand thoughts which probably not one of them could have discovered.

The Founding of Jamestown Albert Bushnell Hart, 2018-03-12. Excerpt from The Founding of Jamestown. Percy's Discourse of Virginia. Wingfield's Discourse of Virginia 1607-1619. Woods to the Mountain tops, so we lost the sight of them, whereupon we made all the haste we could to our quarter, thinking there had been a great ambush of Indians thereabouts. We past into the thickest of the Woods, where we had almost lost our selves, we had not gone above half a mile amongst the thickets, but we came into a most pleasant Garden, being a hundred paces square on every side, having many Cotton trees growing in it, with abundance of Cotton wool, and many Guaiacum trees, we saw the goodliest tall trees growing so thick.

Harrison, 2017-07-21 Excerpt from A Discourse on the Prospects of Letters and Taste in Virginia Pronounced Before the Literary and Philosophical Society of Hampden Sydney College at Their Fourth Anniversary in September 1827 I have not thought proper to undertake to entertain you with high sounding generalities applicable or rather inapplicable alike to all countries and to all times nor to attempt to amuse you with the display of a portion of that great stock of sentiment and opinion which after the civilians I may call matter communis juris opinions which no one is so obtuse as not to have adopted and sentiments which no one is perverse or sluggish enough not to feel The times need minuter observation and the suggestion of palpable faults I am sure too that you chie y desire individuality in the speaker who is called before your learned body at each returning annual meeting Such in a high degree have been all the discourses hitherto delivered to the Society And at the outset I cannot but dread the contrast which it may occur to some to institute between my own humble efforts and the display which it was the good fortune of the Society to witness at its last assembling here No one admires more than myself the classical propriety the rare felicity of speech of the member to Whom I allude with you I listened with astonishment at the elegant uency I will even say the provoking uency with which he pours out the richest thoughts in aptest phrase with you may I regret the occasion which draws him away from Virginia and from this Society About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work

George S. Hillard, of Boston George Stillman Hillard,1879 Perplexing Patriarchies: Fatherhood Among Black Opponents and White Defenders of Slavery Pierre Islam,2019-05-15 Perplexing Patriarchies examines the rhetorical usage and lived experience of fatherhood among three

African American abolitionists and three of their white proslavery opponents in the United States during the nineteenth century Both the prominent abolitionists Frederick Douglass Martin Delany and Henry Garnet as well as the prominent proslavery advocates Henry Hammond George Fitzhugh and Richard Dabney appealed to the popular image of the father husband and head of household in order to attack or justify slavery How and why could these opposing individuals rely on appeals to the same ideal of fatherhood to come to completely different and opposing conclusions This book strives to find the answer by first acknowledging that both the abolitionists and the proslavery men shared similar concerns about the contested status of fatherhood in the nineteenth century However due to subtle differences in their starting assumptions and different choices of what parts of a father s responsibilities to emphasize the black abolitionists conceived of an ideal father who protected the autonomy of his dependents while the proslavery men conceived of one whose authority necessitated the subordination of those he protected Finding that these differences arose from choices in starting assumptions and emphases rather than total disagreement on what the role of the father should be this work reveals that black abolitionists were not radically critiquing the gender conventions of their day but innovatively working within those conventions to turn them towards social reform This discovery opens up a new way for historians to consider how oppressed peoples negotiated the intellectual boundaries of the societies which oppressed them Not necessarily breaking entirely from those boundaries nor passively accepting them but ingeniously synthesizing a worldview from within their confines that still allowed for freedom and personal autonomy
