Key Dismukes,Benjamin A. Berman,Loukia Loukopoulos,2017-03-02 Why would highly skilled well trained pilots make errors that lead to accidents when they had safely completed many thousands of previous flights The majority of all aviation accidents are attributed primarily to human error but this is often misinterpreted as evidence of lack of skill vigilance or conscientiousness of the pilots The Limits of Expertise is a fresh look at the causes of pilot error and aviation accidents arguing that accidents can be understood only in the context of how the overall aviation system operates The authors analyzed in great depth the 19 major U S airline accidents from 1991 2000 in which the National Transportation Safety Board NTSB found crew error to be a causal factor Each accident is reviewed in a separate chapter that examines events and crew actions and explores the cognitive processes in play at each step The approach is guided by extensive evidence from cognitive psychology that human skill and error are opposite sides of the same coin The book examines the ways in which competing task demands ambiguity and organizational pressures interact with cognitive processes to make all experts vulnerable to characteristic forms of error The final chapter identifies themes cutting across the accidents discusses the role of chance criticizes simplistic concepts of causality of accidents and suggests ways to reduce vulnerability to these catastrophes The authors complementary experience allowed a unique approach to the study accident investigation with the NTSB cognitive psychology research both in the lab and in the field enormous first hand experience of piloting and application of aviation psychology in both civil and military operations This combination allowed the authors to examine and explain the domain specific aspects of aviation operations and to extend advances in basic research in cognition to complex issues of human performance in the real world Although The Limits of Expertise is directed to aviation operations the implications are clear for understanding the decision processes skilled performance and errors of professionals in many domains including medicine      Aeronautical Engineering ,1986 A selection of annotated references to unclassified reports and journal articles that were introduced into the NASA scientific and technical information system and announced in Scientific and technical aerospace reports STAR and International aerospace abstracts IAA      Human Factors in Certification John A. Wise,V. David Hopkin,2000-08-01 Much has happened to certification and to human factors during the past few years In this volume the editors and other specialists discuss the topic of human factors applied to certification They focus on core topics in the certification process that have emerged in the study of product certification in high tech industries The editors purpose is to document advances in the study of certification processes defined largely by the 1993 international conference on the application of human factors principles to the study of product certification in man machine systems Although the book focuses mostly on certification in large man machine systems such as aeronautics its principles also apply to other high tech industries such as medicine and computers An introductory paper and a group of papers presenting propositions and philosophies about human factors contribute to a framework for human factors certification The papers in this volume adopt a more direct approach to certification activities deal with aspects of human machine integration address topics that should feature in any established human factors certification of advanced aviation systems use ideas that already exist in aviation as a basis for discussing certification issues consider issues that arise in the certification of complex future systems and describe some current characteristics of human factors as a discipline that would influence its application to certification      Israel Journal of Technology ,1983      Airways ,2000-07      Declassifying 9/11 Aidan Monaghan,2012 By reading between the lines connecting dots hidden in plain view and seeking corroboration of the alleged version of September 11 events from regional and federal governments by way of Freedom of Information laws September 11 researcher Aidan Monaghan provides evidence of not only a seeming cover up surrounding the events of September 11 but has also developed scientifically based and peer reviewed alternatives for the reported events that unfolded over the skies of America that day      International Aerospace Abstracts ,1997      NASA SP. ,1986      Wings of the Sky: A Journey Through the World of Airplanes Navneet Singh, Chapter 1 The Dawn of Flight The Dream of Flight Early human fascination with flight Myths and legends of flying machines The Pioneers Leonardo da Vinci s flying machine sketches The Montgolfier brothers and the invention of hot air balloons The Wright Brothers The first successful flight in 1903 Key factors
